Repair of mammoth proportions

By TAMARA GRIPPI

A HUGE crane loomed over Carmel Beach this week as the city prepared to contend with numerous three- to five-ton boulders that had been balancing precariously since rough winter storms dislodged them.

The city is waiting for an emergency permit from the California Coastal Commission to lower an excavator onto the beach with a 150-ton crane in order to move the large rocks into a stable pile.

'There are some pretty big stones in there.'

— Jim Cullem

Carmel Public Works Director Jim Cullem explained that during the storms, the high waves stripped the beach of its sand, dislodging some of the rip-rap boulders that had been stacked 20 years ago to support the eroding embankment.

The shifting pile of rock, "left some high-perched boulders that could flatten somebody in a heart-beat," Cullem said.

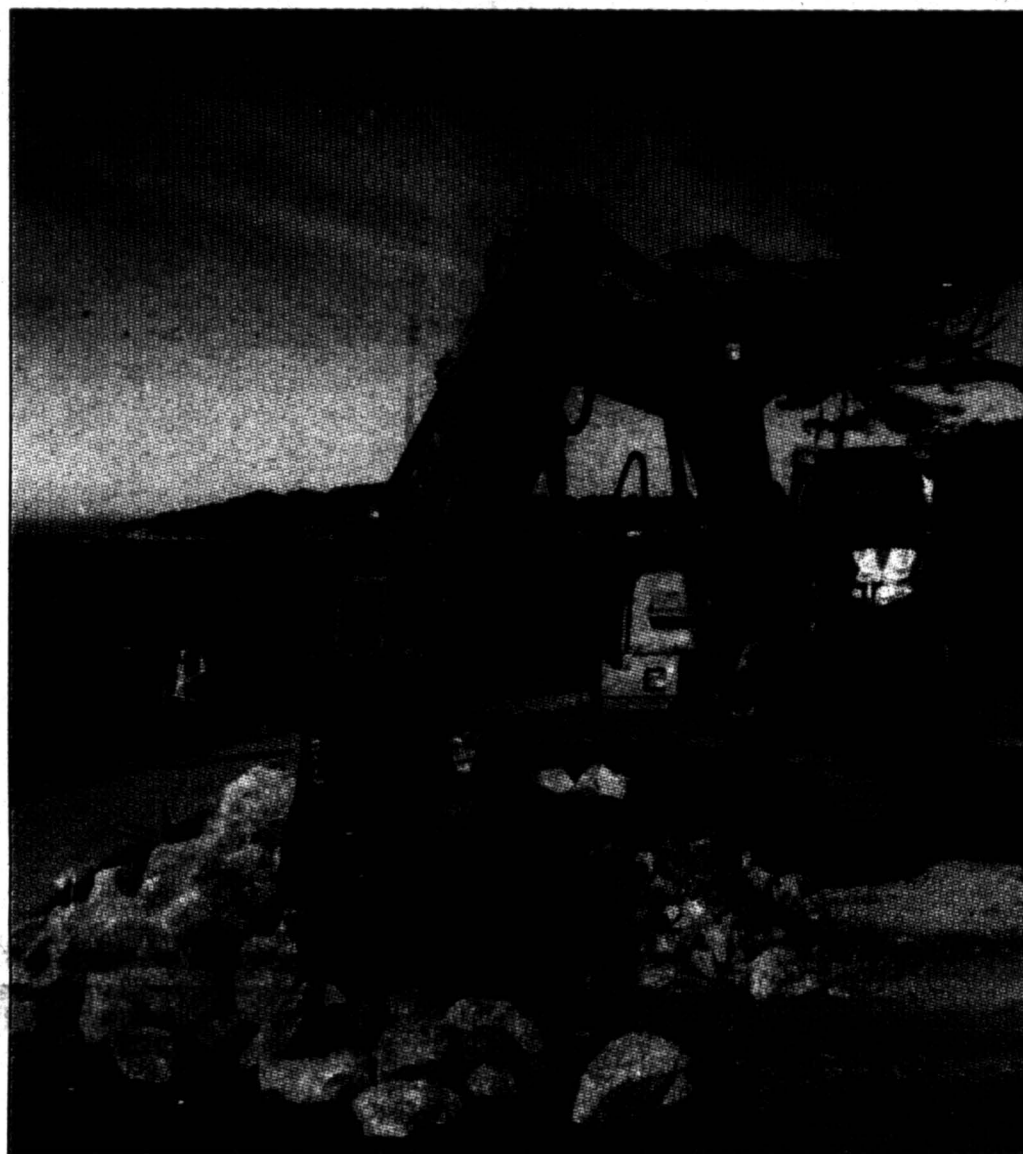

The public works director discovered the damage during a routine inspection of Carmel Beach. "We have a fortunate opportunity during the lowest tides of the month and very calm seas — the perfect conditions to make emergency repairs," Cullem said, noting that the next window of opportunity would not open for at least another month.

Granite Construction won the $120,000 job to reset the rocks at three places along Scenic Road between 12th and 13th avenues and repair the rock foundation of a sea wall near 13th Avenue.

Time is of the essence to protect locals — especially curious kids — from danger, Cullem said. "There are some pretty big stones in there. The best thing to do is to stabilize them."

The city council will be able to review the repair plan at its upcoming meeting.

Funds for the emergency repairs will most likely come from the city's storm damage reserve account. Since Carmel Beach was not declared a natural disaster, the city is not eligible for a reimbursement from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Coastal fix moves in two directions

By TAMARA GRIPPI

THE CALIFORNIA State Assembly approved a bill Thursday setting two-year terms for eight members of the California Coastal Commission — the lawmakers' answer to a recent appeals court ruling that the powerful state board is unconstitutional.

Meanwhile, the state Senate appears poised to approve legislation setting four year terms for the majority of the coastal commissioners. Senate President John Burton championed an amendment to the legislation introduced in the Senate a week ago that would double the length of the proposed terms for commissioners.

The longer term solution won the support of the State Senate's natural resource committee this week. That bill could reach the Senate floor as early as Monday.

Once the legislation passes the Senate, the two houses will negotiate over the ultimate length of terms. Because the bills were proposed during a

Squirrels stage Carmel comeback

By TAMARA GRIPPI

CARMEL'S GREY squirrels, which could be seen scampering along telephone wires and chattering in pine trees before the entire population was wiped out by disease in the 1980s, are making a comeback.

Residents in the southern end of town say they are delighted to see a few of the fluffy-tailed critters once again making themselves at home in Carmel.

A group of unofficial squirrel watchers have counted as many as eight squirrels living in Mission Trail Nature Preserve, according to Carmel Assistant City Administrator Greg D'Ambrosio.

And several Carmelites, including city councilwoman Barbara Livingston, are proud to have a resident squirrel once again living in their trees.

"The sighting of just one squirrel in our yard is cause for great celebration," Livingston said.

Residents are starting to recognize the tell tale signs of their nimble neighbors — chewed up pine cones and a lively chattering overhead.

"They've been very busy," said Mary Jane Sligar. "We hear them arguing with the crows."

In the mid-1980s Carmel's entire squirrel population was killed off by a mange mite epidemic, according to Lisa Hoefler of the SPCA of Monterey County.

"Unfortunately it's one of those things nature does in terms of cycles," Hoefler explained. "When the population gets too dense — more than the carrying capacity of the land can handle — these diseases spread like wildfire."

The epidemic killed squirrels all over the Peninsula and even reached as far north as Santa Cruz, Hoefler said.

Now, more than 15 years after the squirrels disappeared, they're slowly starting to reassert themselves in Carmel. The lively little creatures most likely have migrated here from the Ventana wilderness, Hoefler said.

The squirrel, Sciurus griseus, is a California native. Its comeback has been slow because litters are on the smaller side — typically just two babies. By contrast, raccoons have larger litters and can reestablish themselves more quickly.

At one point, D'Ambrosio asked the Department of Fish and Game if it would be possible to transplant some squirrels here.

"I understand the reason why they didn't want to do that,"

WHOPPING INCREASE BOOSTS HOME SALES ABOVE $1 BILLION

By PAUL and NELLIE BROCCINI

FOR THE second time in history, the Monterey Peninsula registered more than $1 billion in sales of single-family residences last year.

Sales figures compiled by the Monterey County Association of Realtors showed total sales for 2002 in the Monterey Peninsula were $1,079,845,000, up an astounding 41 percent from the 2001 total of $764,551,000.

Encouraged by mortgage rates hovering below 6 percent, buyers invested $315 million more dollars in Peninsula real estate in 2002 than in 2001 — a rebound that was unprecedented.

2002 is still the all-time record year for local real estate, when sales totaled $1.185 billion. Normally, a boom like this is followed by either a slump or a prolonged flat period — especially with the national economy struggling to come out of recession. Yet 2002 was almost as good as 2000.

New DMFPO president puts fire, water and traffic at top of to-do list

By PAUL MILLER

A FORMER attorney with the U.S. Air Force, Jim Nero, was elected president of the Del Monte Forest Property Owners' association earlier this month. He succeeds Paul Woudenberg, chaplain at the Robert Louis Stevenson School, as head of the group that represents more than 1,500 homeowners in the upscale community between Carmel and Pacific Grove.

Nero said that during his year as president of the DMFPO he would "do everything in his power to maintain the wondrous beauty of Pebble Beach" — a goal that includes protecting open space not only from development, but from fire.

"When you look at video from the Huckleberry Hill fire, you have to be just amazed at how quickly fire can move down a street — it comes at you like a wall of flames," Nero said of an inferno that injured 18 people and destroyed more than 30 hillside homes on a dry, hot day in May 1987. He said he would continue the DMFPO's aggressive program, along with the Pebble Beach Community Services District, of making sure undeveloped lots in the forest don't become overgrown fire hazards.

Nero also said his group would be closely monitoring the Pebble Beach Company's plans for new hotel rooms, a new golf course and a relocated equestrian center to make sure they are carried out in accordance with an agreement signed by P.B. CEO Bill Perocchi in October 2000.

"It is very important to the people of Del Monte Forest that the cap on hotel rooms be honored, that hiking and equestrian trails be maintained, and that operations at the existing equestrian center aren't reduced or eliminated before the new one is finished," said Nero, who is an avid rider and hiker and is a member of the Pebble Beach riding and trail association.

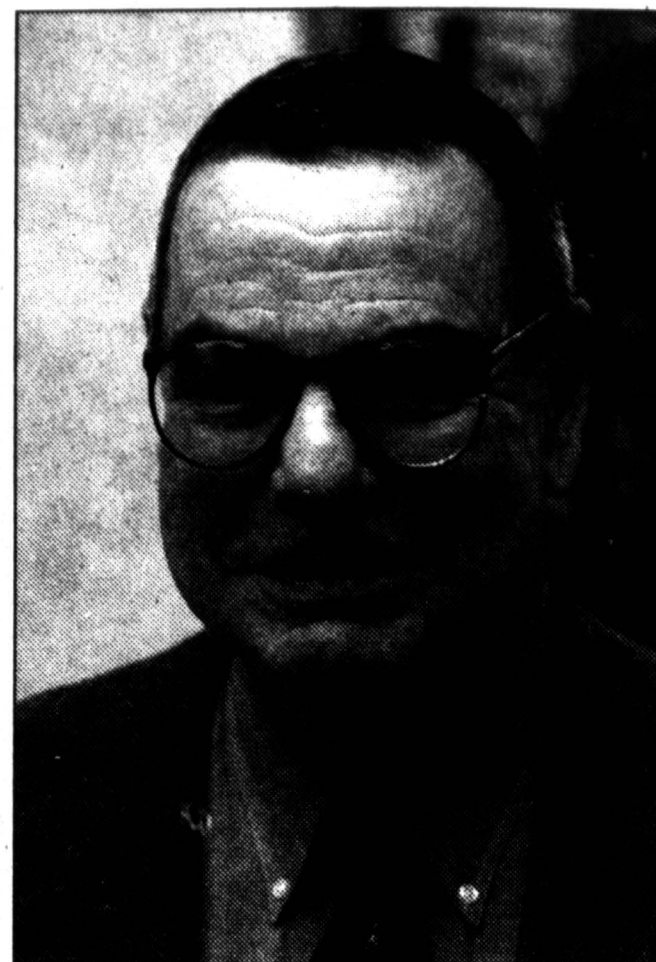

He also said the DMFPO would continue to support the P.B. water reclamation project, which has drastically reduced use of drinking water on golf courses in Del Monte Forest. "Some of that water should be made available for remodels and for building homes on vacant lots," he said.

Nero listed several other concerns that would be at the top of his agenda:

- Improvements to the congested Highway 1 - Highway 68 interchange;
- Better cell phone high-speed internet service;
- Quicker ambulance response times;
- Completion of expanded facilities for the Pebble Beach Community Services District;
- Undergrounding of utilities whenever possible; and
- Adoption of short-term rental regulations for the entire Del Monte Forest.

"It will be a challenge to follow the strong leadership of Paul Woudenberg over the past two years. But I'm going to try," Nero said.

Along with a new president, the DMFPO elected its other officers for the year, including vice presidents John Bailey and Rick Verbanec, secretary Jacqueline Seaton and treasurer Gary Hornbuckle. The officers, along with seven other DMFPO board members, are elected by property owners in Del Monte Forest.

The board meets the second Monday of every month at 4 p.m. in the conference room at the PBCSD offices at the corner of Forest Lake Road and Lopez Road in Pebble Beach.

TREATED WASTEWATER COULD FLOW TO LAGOON

■ Bonus for threatened fish

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THREE OUT of every four weeks between April and November, the Carmel Area Wastewater District pumps reclaimed water from a high-tech treatment plant to the golf courses of Pebble Beach. The water is used for irrigation but, because of high mineral content, has to be replaced with drinking water every fourth week. During that week, the final stage of the treatment plant shuts down, and the treated wastewater flows out to sea.

Last summer, Roy Thomas of the Carmel River Steelhead Association asked CAWD General Manager Ray von Dohren if that week's worth of reclaimed water could be used to enhance the environment of the Carmel River Lagoon for the benefit of steelhead trout and other fauna and flora, which suffer when the river dries up every summer.

"I started investigating to see if putting the treated wastewater into the lagoon would be feasible and practical under current health requirements, and it is," von Dohren said. "Everyone I talked to was enthusiastic about it."

The California Department of Fish and Game, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District, the steelhead association and state parks all reacted positively to the idea, according to von Dohren. "We never got anybody negative," he said.

The CAWD board of directors voted 4-0 Jan. 23 to hire Calmer Engineering, from Lafayette, to study the feasibility of pumping treated wastewater into the lagoon.

Several agencies have already contributed cash to help pay for the $8,000 study, which will examine design, water quality and other issues. The steelhead association pledged $1,000, as did the water management district, and the Pebble Beach Company contributed $2,000, according to von Dohren.

"I think it would really help the lagoon because treated water would be better quality than the runoff that goes in there now," von Dohren said of the anticipated 100-to-125 acre feet that could go to the lagoon.

Delivering the water to the lagoon might not be too costly, because the sewage treatment plant is just a few hundred yards away.

But firing up the final stage of the plant to put the water through a tertiary treatment process — which brings it to a high standard of purity — isn't free. Von Dohren said the price, about $12,000 per week of operation, could come from river augmentation funds available from various government agencies.

While von Dohren hopes to have CAWD-treated water in the lagoon by this summer — perhaps through a pilot program to test the practice — he admitted such a timeline is optimistic.

"The study would take two to three months, but the big concern is what environmental work we might have to do because of other agencies," he said. "I hope we don't have to do an EIR, which would take another year."

State parks owns the lagoon and surrounding land, and a number of federal agencies weigh in on any Carmel River Lagoon project since is habitat for the threatened steelhead trout. The department of fish and game, the regional water quality control board, the state health department, and county environmental health and water resources would also want to look at the proposal.

Von Dohren said the plan's many benefits pose a strong argument for its implementation.

"It's reuse of an important resource and a conservation of a resource — a big deal in this area — and it's preservation of wildlife habitat," he said. "That's just a few of them."

REAL ESTATE ON THE PENINSULA BY JOHN S. LEVINSON

"STAGING" YOUR HOME

Here's a relatively new term. "Staging" your home means preparing it to look especially appealing to potential buyers—brightening rooms, painting, adding flowers, and other decorative touches. In a recent article, Dian Hymer had this to say about "staging":

"A homeowner in Aptos, California learned the hard way what a difference staging a home for sale can make. She listed her home for sale last year with an agent who told her to do nothing to get her home ready for sale. The agent insisted that it was a waste of time to fix a house up for sale because the buyers would surely want to redecorate to suit their own tastes. After months on the market without even a nibble from an interested buyer, the home was withdrawn from the market. The owner then consulted a different agent. This agent detailed all the cosmetic improvements that needed to be done in order to sell the home.

"The home was re-listed after all the suggested improvements were completed. It sold with multiple offers the first week it was on the market—the second time. It also sold for more than the list price."

Yes—it is worth preparing your home for sale. And yes, a seasoned real estate professional can offer profitable advice about "staging" your home. Questions? Call John Levinson at 659-8002.

Close vote in favor of C.V. homes

By MARY BROWNFIELD

DEEPLY DIVIDED over whether building two houses on one parcel is justified by an existing law or sets a "distressing precedent" that could yield defacto subdivisions all over Monterey County, the board of supervisors voted 3-2 this week to allow two homes to be built on a 30-acre parcel in the hills above mid-valley.

The owners of the lot, which is adjacent to the Tierra Grande neighborhood, received permits for one 4,029-square-foot house with a 732-square-foot garage for John and Martha Kenny, and a 6,907-square-foot house with a 1,332-square-foot garage and a 600-square-foot guest house for Barbara McFarland. They also have permission to remove 35 oak trees out of more than 2,400 on the land.

On Jan. 28, the Rancho Tierra Grande Association asked supervisors to overturn the planning commission's approval of the plan, alleging that unrelated people building separate homes on one property is basically a subdivision and therefore violates the moratorium on dividing lots in Carmel Valley.

The group also complained about the lack of a replacement plan for the oaks, and said there would be drainage, erosion and traffic problems. The homeowners group said an EIR should be conducted.

Representing the Kennys and McFarland, attorney Myron "Doc" Etienne said they were well within their rights to build, had spent $138,000 for numerous studies and promised to record a deed that would prevent further development on a property which could legally accommodate eight homes if it were subdivided.

Assistant planner Timothy Johnston recommended the board approve the project, since current county code allows up to four residences on one parcel and all environmental concerns were addressed and mitigated in the 54 conditions of approval. A forester concluded replanting 35 oaks on a parcel with "thousands" would not be necessary, and since it is a steeply sloped canyon, most of the property will remain open space.

Representing the Rancho Tierra Grande Association, which appealed the planning commission's approval, Charles Ludeman said supervisors should only allow one house on the property.

"This is not ag land, it's not affordable

Low interest rates save city $47,000

By TAMARA GRIPPI

THE BRIGHT spot in the troubled economy — record-low interest rates — will produce more than $47,000 in savings for the City of Carmel.

Last week, the city council approved a refinancing plan for Rio Park, which the city purchased for $1.75 million in 1990.

Originally financed with a city-backed bond issue, Rio Park will now have a mortgage from Western Municipal Securities that will cut the interest rate from 7.4 percent to 3.75 percent.

By reducing its annual payments, the city will save a total of $47,650. Carmel City Administrator Rich Guillen said that money will be added to the city's capital improvement reserves.

The council was pleased to learn the good news after months of disappointing sales and hotel tax revenues.

"We're looking at every financial structure we have in the city to find ways to save money to prepare for the upcoming budget and for years to come," Guillen said. "We have to be as creative as we can."

At the Jan. 22 council meeting, members unanimously endorsed the proposal from Western Municipal Securities. Another firm, Brandis-Tallman, originally approached the city with an offer that would reduce the interest to 4.3 percent.

After Brandis-Tallman was informed the city had received a better offer, the firm revised its proposal, according to a staff report written by Guillen.

Ultimately, the city was more impressed with Western Municipal Securities' offer, particularly because firm would not penalize the city for retiring its debt early. Under the current plan, the city will finish its payments in 2010.

"The fact that Western Municipal Securities quoted the best rate they could get from the beginning speaks volumes about how they do business," Guillen's report stated.

In 1990, the city bought the six-acre Rio Park — straddling the Carmel River between Larson Field and the Carmel sewage treatment plant — to keep it from being developed. County zoning still allows for construction of eight houses on the property.

The city originally planned to use the land for a ball field and other recreation with improved trails. It has never been annexed to the city.

housing, it's not the same family or even relatives, and they're not long-term owners," he said. "These are unrelated parties."

Ludeman said 257 Tierra Grande residents signed a petition asking for one house and the 800-member Carmel Valley Association supported the appeal.

Jan. 28 did not mark the first battle between the applicants and the RTG Association. They faced off before the board in March 2001 over water rights and later regarding a "non-access strip" that seemed to deny the owners access to their property. A Superior Court judge decided that matter in favor of the Kennys and McFarland in October 2001.

During the appeal, numerous Tierra Grande residents and some environmental and land-use groups, including the Sierra Club, a conservation group from Elkhorn Slough and LandWatch Monterey County, said the approval constituted an "end run around the subdivision moratorium" and could lead to unprecedented levels of development if every owner of a large parcel in Monterey County asked permission to build multiple homes.

"To approve this is to turn a blind eye to the precedent it will set," said the Elkhorn Slough representative. "You will have 350 parcels doubling and quadrupling."

Others raised the specters of development on par with Carmel Valley Ranch and what might happen if Berwick Canyon caught on fire while hundreds of people were on the Kenny/McFarland parcel.

Project supporters characterized many of the critics as fear mongers engaging in a malicious campaign against the property owners.

"In this case, we have been asked to participate in an effort to poison the well of public opinion against these people," one Tierra Grande resident told the board. "We are in full agreement with the planning commission's approval. Support the rights of ownership they deserve and we in Rancho Tierra Grande enjoy."

Fifth District Supervisor Dave Potter said he could support one house on the property, but feared separate parties with separate homes on one parcel could lead to the "corporatizing of single-family neighborhoods." Approval, he said, would set a "distressing precedent."

Supervisor Lou Calcagno said the county code which entitles such development should apply to large farms, not smaller parcels.

"As supervisor, I should follow the rules and regulations and policies set in the book, and would have to go with staff," he said. "But looking at it from what's really right and what's wrong, I would have no problem setting it at one house and if they came back with a subdivision, I could support two houses."

"The people attempting to build these two homes have spent a huge amount of money and a lot of time to use a small part of their property," supervisor Butch Lindley countered.

Before the vote, county administrative officer Sally Reed cautioned the board against changing requirements midstream.

"I hate to see someone come in and read the rules, and then have us decide maybe they shouldn't apply in this case," she said. "People come in to the planning department, and we should be able to tell them what the rules are."

Reed suggested the board direct staff to look into the implications of the county code, after which supervisors could decide to change it.

Ultimately, supervisor Edith Johnsen and board chairman Fernando Armenta sided with Lindley, and the board voted 3-2 to deny the appeal, approve the permits and accept the deed restriction on the property.

Still too many cars on C.V. Road

By MARY BROWNFIELD

THE BAN on new subdivisions in Carmel Valley will continue, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors unanimously decided this week, because traffic counts on Carmel Valley Road are still too high.

The board originally adopted a moratorium on new residential and commercial subdivisions in 2000 after hearing complaints about traffic problems in the valley.

The ban was extended again in 2001, when an average of 11,667 cars traveled each day on Carmel Valley Road between Ford Road and Los Laureles Grade — 67 more than the county wanted. Even more were using the valley road between Rancho Carlos Road and Schulte Road: a total of 16,537 on an average day, 197 more cars than there should have been.

And the numbers are even higher now, according to a report submitted by public works director Lew Bauman. In 2002, traffic counts were 298 vehicles per day too high between Ford Road and Los Laureles Grade, and 371 vehicles per day too high between Rancho San Carlos Road and Schulte Road.

According to the Carmel Valley Master Plan, once traffic in the valley reached the traffic threshold, development had to be stopped until the Hatton Canyon Freeway was built. Since the demise of the freeway project, according to Bauman, supervisors set different criteria to replace that old language, settling on the completion of the special session of the Legislature, they will become effective 90 days after receiving the governor's signature.

The 3rd District Court of Appeal's Dec. 30 ruling that the commission violates the state constitution's Separation of Powers clause because it exercises law-enforcement powers but is controlled by the Legislature became final Jan. 29.

However, the coastal commission, which has a meeting set for next week in San Diego, is not in any danger of being stripped of its powers in the immediate future, according to the California Attorney General's office.

Tom Dresslar, a spokesman for Attorney General Bill Lockyer, said he believes the stay of Judge Charles Kobayashi's original judgment against the coastal commission will remain in effect until the entire appeals process has been completed.

His office plans to file an appeal to the state Supreme Court by Feb. 10, Dresslar said.

The ongoing court battle has particular importance in Carmel, which lies entirely in the coastal zone, where the coastal commission has final jurisdiction over everything from parking rules to the square-footage of new houses.

A simple fix?

Assemblyman John Laird, who represents the Monterey Peninsula, said he felt confident the two-year term would satisfy the appeals court's concern that the Legislature — responsible for appointing eight of the 12 coastal commissioners — has too much power over the commission because it can fire a majority of the members at any time.

The legislation, which passed the Assembly on a 48-24 vote — would not affect the governor's ability to appoint and fire commissioners "at will."

"A few of the people who spoke against the bill had problems in general with the coastal commission and felt this was the appropriate vehicle to address them," Laird said. "But the majority of people felt the appellate court made one simple statement of a problem and this bill will fix that problem and nothing else."

Support in the Senate for longer terms may be based on the belief that four-year terms would create an even greater independence from the Legislature, said Syrus Devers, legislative aide to State Sen. Sheila Kuehl, the Democrat from Santa Monica who authored the bill.

"This will create greater stability," Devers said.

Coastal commissioner and 5th District Supervisor Dave Potter said he expected the commission to move ahead with business as usual at its meeting next week.

Assemblyman John Laird

'A few of the people who spoke against the bill had problems in general with the coastal commission and felt this was the appropriate vehicle to address them. But the majority of people felt the appellate court made one simple statement of a problem and this bill will fix that problem and nothing else.'

— John Laird

Potter said he was curious to find out if the Legislature's fix will be enough to satisfy the court. Speaking to The Pine Cone from a conference in New Orleans, Potter pointed out that the legislation should make some provision for removing commissioners who turn out to be unsuited for the job.

"What if a person turns out to be rude to the public, abusive, racist, and you don't know this when you appoint them?" Potter argued. "You have to be able to take them out."

D'Ambrosio said. "They don't want to ruin the gene pool or involve themselves in the natural regeneration."

Now that the squirrels have begun their return, both Hoefler and D'Ambrosio encouraged Carmelites to help make sure their little guys stay here.

"They can be killed off all the time by cars," D'Ambrosio said. "People should be cautious and observant."

And Hoefler noted that squirrels can also be killed by kindness. "I would caution people not to get involved in feeding them," she said. "I know it's a fun hobby for a lot of people, but it really causes problem."

Feeding leads to overpopulation, which leads to the disease that wiped out the squirrels in the first place.

For now, Carmelites are just enjoying the sights and sounds of the chipper critters.

"We've been without these guys for 12 years," said Ken Otrich. "It's really nice to hear the chirping in the trees again."

climbing lane and other "capacity-increasing improvements" on Highway 1, as well as construction of center turn lanes at several intersections on Carmel Valley Road. Those projects have been completed.

But they also decided the moratorium couldn't end until the county's updated General Plan was passed, since it will include new rules limiting subdivisions and addressing traffic in Carmel Valley.

Bauman said there isn't much public support for increasing the capacity of Carmel Valley Road and, given the proposed General Plan's slow-growth policies, it's likely very few subdivisions will occur in the valley over the next 20 years.

In the meantime, the 3-year-old moratorium will stay in effect, after the board voted to accept Bauman's report and maintain the status quo.

Prior to the board's vote, Carmel Valley resident Joe Hertlein criticized the public works department for not reporting current Carmel Valley Road traffic counts to the Carmel Valley Land Use Advisory Committee and the traffic committee 5th District Supervisor Dave Potter convened to address such issues in the valley.

"I wish the information could have been presented to them for some feedback," Hertlein said.

Masters of Food and Wine gathering draws near

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

"It's A gathering," according to Highlands Inn General Manager Andrew Davidson, speaking of the up-coming 17th annual Masters of Food & Wine, a premier of U.S. culinary event. "But it's not to make money."

Tickets to any of the 19 events run from $100 to $350 per person per event, yet the high artistry inherent in its culinary and wine personnel and costly ingredients of its dinners, luncheons demonstrations and wine tastings are not inexpensive.

The gathering will bring line cooks, sous chefs, master sommeliers and 33 culinary artist chefs from some of the most prestigious restaurants here and abroad. An invitation to participate in this five-day spectacular is highly coveted.

The very, very special James House Rarities dinner features 22 rare wines paired to a dinner prepared by Gary Danko of Gary Danko in San Francisco, Todd English of Olives and Figs, and pastry chef Gale Gand of Tru in Chicago. It will cost a pretty penny because of the wines selected by Director of Wine Bernabe De Luna.

Only 24 diners can be accommodated at the glamorous James House dinner in the architectural jewel adjacent to Highlands Inn on the cliffs overlooking the Pacific. The 1918 house was designed by Charles Sumner Greene. Last year diners paid $2,500 each for a place at the table; this year it's even more.

From the opening reception the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 19 with 50 celebrated wineries alongside 13 world-renowned chefs preparing their signature dishes, to the final noontime event Sunday, Feb. 23 — the Seafood Market Grill — all events will be attended by gastronomes and oenophiles who often travel great distances to come to the Masters at Highlands Inn Park Hyatt.

An innovation this year will be Thursday nights' "All Ladies Night" fundraising event bringing together female chefs, vintners and sommeliers presented by Highlands Inn and the San Francisco Bay Area affiliate of the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

For a booklet listing all events, participants and ticket prices, call (800) 401-1109 or go online at www.mfandw.com for information or to order tickets.

Parents Night Out Feb. 13 at Rio Grill

RIO GRILL'S first ever "Parents Night Out" is set for Thursday, Feb. 13 with a Valentine theme, allowing parents to enjoy a romantic dinner together while their children play, create crafts and enjoy fun food in the private Santa Fe Room at the Grill supervised by VIP childcare service provider, Corporate Kids Events.

Executive Chef Sherman Johnson will prepare a three course dinner with a choice of two salads, three entrées, and three desserts. Reservations can be made for 5:30, 6:30 or 7:30 p.m. and children of all ages are invited. Cost of the evening is $95 per family, inclusive of one child, plus tax and gratuity. Additional children are welcome at a cost of $15 per child.

For information and reservations, call 625-5436.

REMEMBER THE lone cypress illustration on the Pepperidge Farm Carmel cookies package? It was eighty-sixed after The Pebble Beach Co. pointed out that the lone cypress is its trademarked logo. Gift basket grand prize at vintners' Valentine getaway

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

Couples and singles will follow the wine trail to any of 20 Monterey County tasting rooms for food, music and wine the weekend of Feb. 14 - 16.

THE FIRST "passport weekend" — a three-day escape into Monterey County's wine country — is planned for Feb. 14 to 16 by the Monterey County Vintners and Growers Association as a Valentine getaway.

According to event director Tamara Weinstein, the long wine country weekend was created with both couples and singles in mind. Twenty tasting rooms will be open to welcome participants who will begin their wine trail journey by picking up a commemorative wine glass and official passport at a designated winery. The passport will be stamped at each winery visited. After collecting a selected number of stamps, participants will be awarded a box of wine-filled chocolates and will be entered to win the grand prize of a Monterey Wine Country gift basket valued at more than $1,500.

Music and food will accompany wine tasting at the tasting rooms.

Tickets are $35 per person before Feb. 1, and $40 thereafter. Designated driver tickets are available for $15 — all through the MCVGA at 375-9400 or online at www.montereywines.org.

Monterey's Fresh Cream garners more top awards

By MARGOT PETIT NICHOLS

FOR THE ninth consecutive year, Fresh Cream of Monterey has been given the DiRoNA Award (Distinguished Restaurants of North America) and also for the ninth year, has won the Wine Spectator Award of Excellence — a feather in the toque of Executive Chef Gregory Lizza.

Along with these coveted awards, Fresh Cream has been granted a Four Diamond rating from American Automobile Association — only one of 18 restaurants in Northern California to be so honored.

Zagat's Restaurant Survey, known as the "restaurant-goer's bible," granted 26 of a possible 28 points to the Monterey restaurant located at Heritage Harbor adjacent to Fisherman's Wharf.

Readers can visit Fresh Cream online at www.freshcream.com for a virtual tour of the bay view dining rooms at 100C, 99 Pacific St., Monterey. For information or reservations, call 375-9798.

GRETEL MORGAN, 7, a parti-colored Pomeranian, is spectacular in her two-toned fluffy coat of extraordinary length and density.

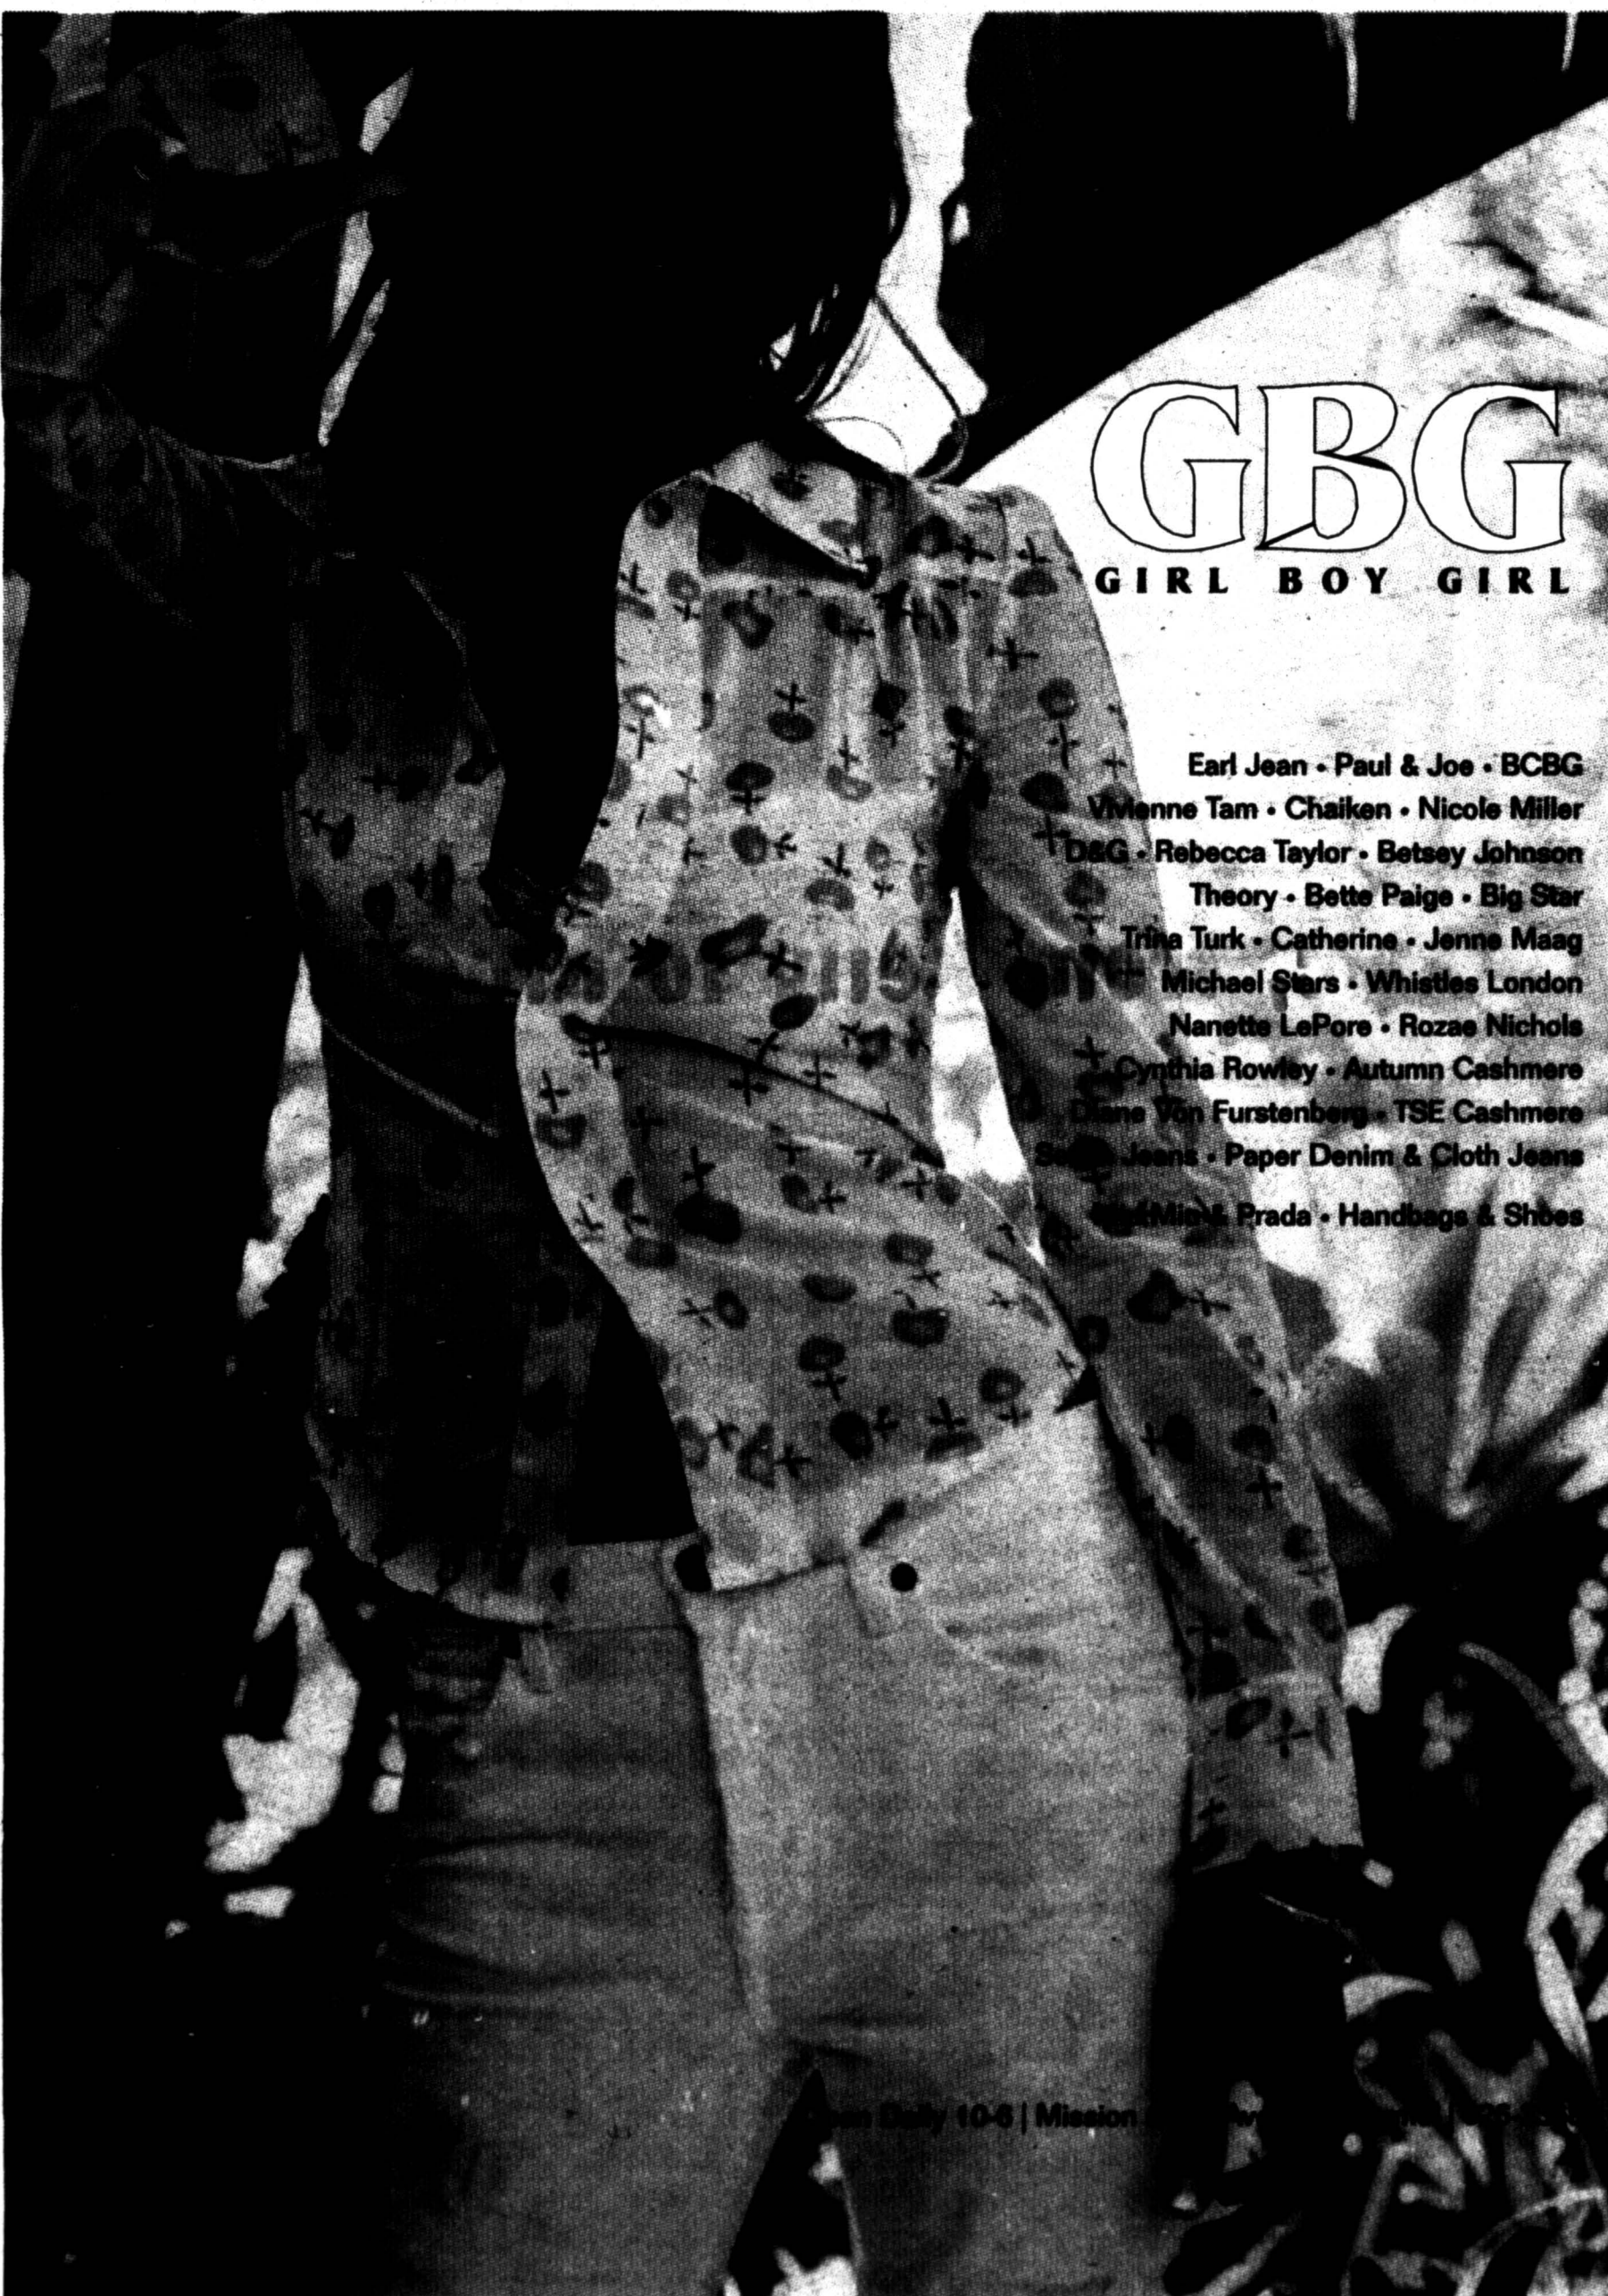

Mom Hilary is Keeper of the Fur in their Carmel Highlands home, and although Gretel goes to the beauty shop only once a month, her black and white coat shows obvious loving care and attention.

When Mom first laid eyes on her, Gretel was a tiny pup running around in a pen — a ball of fur "like a squeaky toy come to life." She made a bee-line for her Mom-to-be when she hunkered down to get a better look at the fluff ball. Gretel jumped right up into Hilary's lap, nestled up against her, and stole her heart. Hilary had been chosen.

When the Morgans lived in Pasadena, Gretel sweltered in her sweater of fur all through the hot, hot summers. But when they moved here two years ago, Gretel grew her current thick and luxuriant coat in keeping with the coastal coolness. "She loves it here," Mom said, following a morning walk along Scenic Road. The wind tousled Gretel's fur in beguiling fashion, animating her while standing still for her photo shoot and interview.

Although Gretel is self-assured and independent and knows exactly what she wants, she runs to Mom if something scares her, jumps up with her front paws, begging to be picked up like a baby. And like many children, she doesn't want to let Mom out of her sight.

No fear there.

Carmel 'development' begins centennial celebration

Alan Brenner did a terrific impression of Frank Devendorf at Carmel's Centennial celebration kickoff party.

2003 MARKS the Centennial Anniversary of the building of Carmel — that is, when developers Frank Devendorf and Frank Powers got to do their thing without hassling with planning commissions. And Carmelites are planning to make the most of it! The kick-off was a reception hosted by La Playa, organized by the Carmel Business Association, with honorary co-chairs Glenn & Marion Leidig. The evening's "Devendorf" — aka Alan Brenner — entertained guests with a colorful version of the city's early history, calling the founders' "Carmel Development Company" name an oxymoron. Even Carmel Mayor Sue McCloud was dressed in period costume. Congressman Sam Farr's wife Shari chatted with Hallie Mitchell Dow, while the Leidigs caught up with Janis Elliott. Joy Fehring Roberts, one of five sisters, moved here at age 1 but now lives in Santa Cruz. "Dad is visiting sisters one and two!" she quipped. She had come with sister JoAnn Holbrook who lives here. Joy's new business, a 30-minute-based exercise club named Curves, is near the Barnyard. Jody LeTowt, an aficionado of heli-skiing and other equally extreme sports, seemed unfazed by recent publicized avalanche accidents. "I'm getting ready to go on another one," he said, smiling. The event showed off the skills of Bill Stone, who made the gorgeous centennial poster

The Failed Experiment — Part II: 'The Appointment'

TO REMIND you, Part I was the wee bit of difficulty getting the TV cable people — who didn't like my numberless Carmel address — to schedule a visit to reconnect the cable. By the time I finally got an "8 to noon" slot, I felt I had been more than punished for failing to resist life without TV.

The cable company disagreed.

There was no sign of them by 10 a.m. 11 a.m. 11:30 a.m. Warning bells went off in my head. At 11:35 I called. "There are only 25 minutes left in my slot. Are they on their way here?" I asked.

"Oh no," Ms. Cable replied. "They're running late; they won't be there before 2 p.m. You're eligible for a $20 credit because they're late."

I took a deep breath, counted to 10, and told her, "OK." (Anyway, you can't strangle more than one neck at a time, and $20 wouldn't cover the legal defense fees.)

2 p.m. 3 p.m. At 3:50, I was back on the phone, although navigating through the voicemail jungle took 'til 4:05.

"I'm sorry, ma'am, but it's already past four and it's too late. It's marked here that we tried to call you at 11:35 but we had a wrong number," Ms. Cable replied.

"WHAT?" I screeched. "I'M the 11:35 call — it was ME, ME! That's when they told me I'd get the credit! At 11:35!"

"OK, let me see what I can do," said Ms. Cable, a wise person. "I'll have someone there shortly."

4:30 p.m. 5 p.m. I make another call. My blood pressure's steadily rising.

"Ma'am, our man came to your door but no one was home, so he left; you'll have to reschedule for another day."

"But I'm HEEEEERE! I haven't MOVED! I don't know WHERE they're going, but it's NOT my house! I want a cable man HERE — TODAY, or ELSE!" (I had no idea what the "else" would be, but thought it sounded good.)

"OK, I'll get him there shortly."

He was there in minutes.

'Widowers' Houses' throws open its doors to laughter

By BEVERLY HILL VAN JOOLEN

"MONEY IS the root of all evil, and wouldn't we all like a bit o' that tree," notes the shrewd Mr. Lickcheese in George Bernard Shaw's, "Widowers' Houses."

theater review

Bitingly funny, Shaw's first play is also full of romance, intrigue and sophisticated farce. It captures the nature of humanity's greed with a clever mix of perception and satire and the Staff Players deliver the rarely performed piece with layered insight and delightful wit.

Directed by Marcia Gambrell Hovick at the intimate Indoor Forest Theatre, "Widowers' Houses" begins on a ship bound for the "continent" where Dr. Harry Trench, the youngest son of a nobleman, and his friend, Cokane, have met the wealthy Mr. Sartorius and his daughter, Blanche.

Harry has fallen in love with Blanche but is without title or money. Now it is up to the well-heeled but common-born Cokane to charm Blanche's intimidating father, and to tutor Harry in the art of "tact" and "suavity."

Just as a marriage agreement is made, however, Harry learns, from the seedy rent collector, Mr. Lickcheese, the source of Mr. Sartorius' wealth. Appalled, Harry refuses to accept the dowry settled on Blanche and thinking Harry unreasonable, she breaks off the engagement. All seems lost until Mr. Lickcheese steps in to offer a solution that could benefit the young lovers, Mr. Sartorius, and himself.

Jody Gilmore as Harry and Thomas Burks as Cokane establish the sardonic tone of the show with their easy banter. Burks is marvelous with his caustic needling at Harry's flippant and tactless manner. He wholly absorbs the voice, mannerisms, and, with subtlety, exudes the ambitions of the mentoring Cokane. Gilmore portrays the young nobleman with exact indifference and luxurious abandon of responsibility which gives Burks a perfect target for his barbs.

Tracy Brown plays the pampered and protected Blanche with spirit. Her use of a British accent gets in the way at times, as does her unsupported display of temper, but her manipulations of her father and Harry

Dr. Harry Trench (Jody Gilmore) commiserates with Blanche Sartorius (Tracy Brown) in the Staff Players' staging of this Shavian comedy.

Charles Stevens as the wily Mr. Lickcheese. His name alone and the way Cokane delivers it is enough to start the audience laughing. But Stevens also portrays the colorful character with an irresistible blend of charm and cunning.

Costumes by Andrienne Wellisch are richly textured and Blanche's wardrobe is elegant. Stage design, by Staff Players' new Technical Director Blaine Yeats, is comfortably cluttered and efficient.

"Life in an Uncivil Society" is the theme for Staff Players' 33rd year on stage. "Widowers' Houses" not only ties into the theme, but reflects the ridiculousness of our incivility. If we can laugh at ourselves, Shaw seems to suggest, we will survive. Quills up!

Comedy staged at Carmel High

Del Shore's comedy, "Daddy's Dyin', Who's Got the Will," will have final performances this weekend in the theater on the Carmel High School campus.

Curtain is at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 31 and 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 2. Tickets are $7 general (two for $12) or $5 for students and seniors (two for $8).

■ A collection like no other

The Monterey Museum of Art — and director Richard Gadd — hit it big when Maggi Weston agreed to lend her personal photograph collection for an exhibit. A shoulder-to-shoulder crowd turned out for the opening . . . Anna Rheim gets to see Maggi through the Collector's Guild they both belong to. "She's a very good business-woman," Anna noted. "It's tough to be successful in this business but wherever I travel abroad, when people know I live here they ask 'Do you know Maggi Weston?'" . . . Does Maggi do much photography herself? "Not really," she admits. "I'm so aware of what's good photography, I know I couldn't even come close!" . . . Hilda Beck and Sharon Borg, both collectors, recently returned from cruising in New Zealand and Australia . . . Paula Walzer just got back from a birthday bash her son in L.A. threw for her . . . former board prez Mary Green's gearing up to go to Washington, D.C., to accept a CINE Golden Eagle award for the film she co-produced on photography's local history. The film's now been picked up by 47 PBS stations . . . Maria Lindley used to work for Maggi. "A lot of these [photos] are old friends," she said . . . Paul & docent Phoebe Croonquist keep busy with five grandkids . . . Also seen was Rolande Ketcham, the late cartoonist's wife.

Effective meditation taught by Sally Kempton — aka Swami Durgananda

SALLY KEMPTON became Swami Durgananda after she worked as a journalist in the '60s and early '70s.

But before this metaphysical metamorphosis, she grew up on the East Coast with her mother, a social worker, and father, the Pulitzer Prize and National Book Award winner, Murray Kempton, and graduated from Sarah Lawrence College.

It was in 1974 she became a full time student of Swami Muktananda and was trained in philosophy and meditation. Eight years later she became a member of the Saraswati Order of monks. It was then she took her monastic name and it is under this name that she has written the book, "The Heart of Meditation — Pathways to a Deeper Experience."

For the last two decades she has studied and taught under the guidance of a meditation master, Gurumayi Chidvilasananda.

Sally Kempton

Meditation, for those who have attempted its practice, is not as easy as it sounds. After all, one may think, how difficult can it be to remain still, letting go of one's thoughts? Swami Durgananda knows how the world intrudes time and time again, and explains in clear prose the path to deep meditation, to go beyond our ordinary way of seeing.

Andrew Weil, M.D., author of "Spontaneous Healing" and "Meditation for Optimum Health," says of Swami Durgananda's book, "This is classic wisdom of the East cast in very personal and accessible form. It is authoritative and inspiring and will not only make you want to meditate, but to do it for the highest reasons and in the most effective way."

Swami Durgananda was the founding editor of Darshan, the Siddha Yoga magazine, and has offered courses and workshops in Siddha Yoga meditation and yoga philosophy in the U.S., Europe, Australia and the Far East. In June of last year she decided to "transition from her role as monk and continue as a lay Siddha Yoga teacher." She put aside her monk's robes and reentered society with her given name, Sally Kempton, and teaches workshops and retreats to a wide variety of audiences. She is currently living in Carmel.

At 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 7, Sally Kempton will speak on "Meditation and the Open Heart" and will sign her book in the Ferrante Room of the Monterey Conference Center, Del Monte and Alvarado, Monterey. Admission is free.

The following weekend, commencing at 8:30 a.m., she will conduct a workshop, "The Heart of Meditation," at the Siddha Yoga Meditation Center of Monterey, 2560 Garden Road. Registration is $60 at the door, and $20 for students.

The 343-page softcover "The Heart of Meditation" is published by Siddha Yoga Publications, South Fallsburg, N.Y. and retails for $17.95. It may be purchased through Barnes & Noble, Borders, and Amazon.com.

ANNA LOUISE Bardach, political journalist and author of "Cuba Confidential: Love and Vengeance in Miami and Havana," will read from and sign her book at 4 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 1 at the Henry Miller Library, Highway 1, in Big Sur. Admission is free and a meet-the-author reception will follow.

Bardach's views on the 2000 election and what happened in Florida, her opinions on Fidel Castro, and insights on terrorism are insider's views. The Kirkus Review calls the book "An illuminating portrait by a first-class investigative journalist, of the half-century-long civil war that has divided Cuba against itself." The book is published by Random House and retails for $25.95.

JOHN WALTON, author of "Storied Land: Community and Memory in Monterey," will speak at 10 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 1 at the Carmel Valley Library, 65 W. Carmel Valley Road, as part of the First Saturday series sponsored by the Friends of the Carmel Valley Library. To reserve a seat, call the library at 659-2377.

THE THUNDERBIRD Bookshop and Dale Forbes present "A Valentine to the Power of Love" exhibition of poetry, prose and artwork at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 13 with a special free Valentine's Eve Performance by winning local writers. Poets are invited to submit a valentine in the form of prose, poetry or artwork. Selected works will be on exhibition in the Thunderbird's new Sophia Center through February. A culmination of "The Heart's Venture" production takes the form of a fee workshop on the power of love, hosted by Dale Forbes at 2 p.m., Saturday, March 1. Cost and time to be announced.

To submit an entry, bring it to The Thunderbird Bookshop at The Barnyard, Carmel, or contact Dale Forbes at 624-1803 or e-mail inquires to Heartsvntr@aol.com. Submissions will be accepted through Feb. 10.

SUCH SAD news: The Monterey Bay Aquarium has scaled back and is trying to determine how it can publish and reprint its beautifully conceived and executed books in a more cost effective way. The costs involved in maintaining a dedicated publishing group in-house and the challenges of succeeding in the national wholesale market have led the aquarium to reevaluate its program. It has eliminated its three publications positions staffed so brilliantly by Miki Elizondo, Robbin MacRae and Michelle McKenzie. The publication efforts have been reassigned to the Communications and Merchandising departments of the aquarium which will follow projects now in progress to completion, and suspend others. They will consider other models for publishing and occasional new titles, according to Hank Armstrong, vice president of communications at the aquarium.

A native of South Dakota, he attended DePauw University and later transferred to South Dakota State University where he received his civil engineering degree. During his Navy career, Cdr. Downs attended the Line School in Newport, R.I., and did postgraduate work at the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

He was recruited as a Navy pilot before Pearl Harbor, received his commission as an ensign and was awarded his wings in April 1942. He got orders to VFN74, an elite fighter group of F4U Corsairs, who were the first to fly combat missions at night. He worked with engineers and scientists at MIT to develop the instruments that became standard for night and weather flying. Among his awards for his duty in the Solomon Islands with VFN74 are two Distinguished Flying Crosses and six Air Medals. Back in the states, Cdr. Downs trained other pilots.

In 1945, he married June Danforth. The couple eventually settled on the Monterey Peninsula in 1959.

His service took him to all parts of the world and included such positions as aide to Adm. John Perry and several Mediterranean cruises aboard carriers, one as executive officer of VF175, an air group that made the transition from traditional carrier fighters to jets. He later served aboard the Bon Homme Richard as communications officer, at the Pentagon and on CINCPac Fleet Staff in Hawaii, often as liaison to U.S. allies in southeast Asia and Japan.

Cdr. Downs served his final tours of duty at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, first as an instructor, writing and publishing an electronics test book for the California Test Bureau. JAMES D. POULOS, a retired grocer and local resident since 1965, died Dec. 23 at his home in Carmel Valley, at age 82. He was born in Manteca and served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

Mr. Poulos operated the Village Market in Carmel Valley Village for 27 years, before retiring in 1992. Even after his retirement, he was often back at the market helping out. His smiling face will be missed by the many area residents who knew him.

He is survived by two sons, James F. of Carmel Valley and Robert of Los Altos; a brother Constantine of Manteca; and three grandchildren. His wife, Rosaleen, died in 1982. Contributions in memory of James Poulos may be made to the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Dept., P.O. Box 965, Carmel Valley, CA 93924.

MARJORIE WILKIE BLACK died Dec. 29 after a brief illness. She was 90.

Born in Los Angeles, Mrs. Black lived in Carmel for many years.

Prior to her retirement, she was a high school mathematics teacher. Her last teaching assignment was at the York School in Monterey.

Mrs. Black was a longtime member of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services and the Carmel Foundation.

She is survived by a son, Art, of Carmel; a daughter, Ann, of Rough and Ready, and five grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Arthur H. Black, in 1983.

The family suggests that memorial contributions be sent to the SPCA of Monterey County, Box 3058, Monterey, CA 93942.

LAGUNA REDO MAKES WAY FOR THE BETTER HALF

By MARY BROWNFIELD

STRIVING TO remain one of the premier racetracks in the country, Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca is in the midst of a multi-million renovation anticipated to take years.

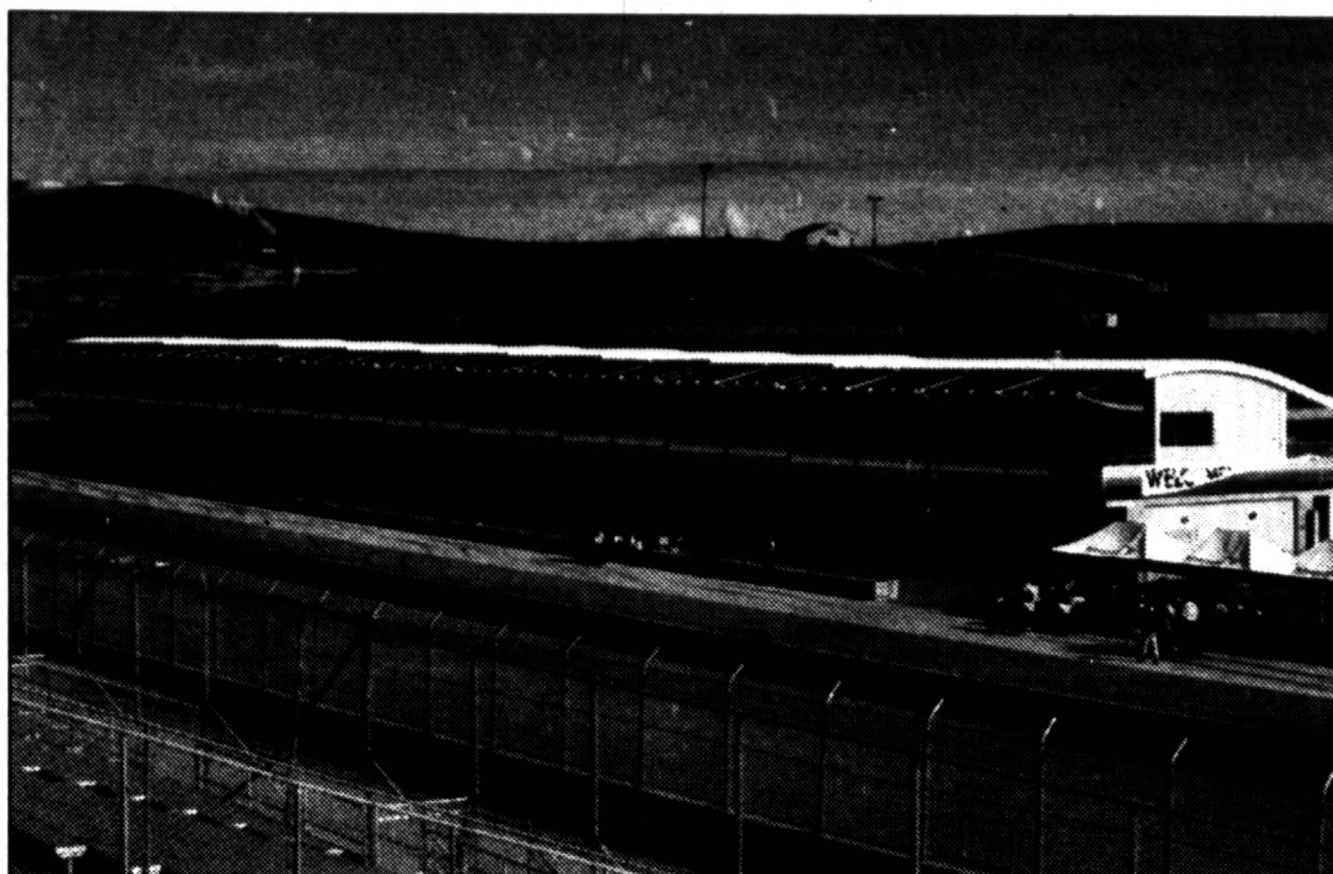

Track officials celebrated the completion of the first phase of $15 million in improvements this month by throwing open the doors to new spectator suites and permanent pit-row garages, which took about a year to build.

The only nonprofit racetrack in the United States, Laguna Seca is part of a large county park which also features campsites, a dirt track for off-road bikes and a shooting range.

"These are ours," Monterey County Parks Director John Pinio said with noticeable awe as he ran his hand along the back of a black leather chair and gazed around one of the brand new suites. "We could have meetings here."

Mazda paid millions to have its name attached to the historic racetrack — money that helped pay not only for the suites and the garages, but also for underground utilities, a sewer system, new restrooms, a catering kitchen and other work.

All the renovation is part of an effort to keep Laguna Seca successful, according to the group which operates the track, Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula. SCRAMP has run Laguna Seca since it opened in 1957 and over the years has distributed more than $10 million to local charities from racing events.

Brand new pitrow garages with luxury spectator suites upstairs now grace the front straight at Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca, and constitute the first half of a $15 million renovation at the track.

Upcoming improvements planned for the track include even more luxury suites and garages, while a long-term wish list includes helipads for VIPs, new grandstands, a restaurant and museum and a plethora of other changes.

RX-8 intro

In addition to celebrating the renovation, Mazda gave county officials and other VIPs a chance to check out a new generation of rotary-engine-powered sports cars.

Assistant county administrator Jim Colangelo was among the several dozen invited to wring as much as they could out of RX-8s on a twisty autocross course while facing the additional challenge of shifting the six-speed cars from the right-side driver's seat. They were then treated to a few laps around the track with a Skip Barber Racing School instructor behind the wheel.

According to Mazda, the new RX-8 will turn the sports car market on its ear, largely because it utilizes an improved rotary engine in place of the traditional piston-driven engine.

The new engine affords more power, better handling, less vibration and higher reliability, the manufacturer claims.

An earlier rotary engine from Mazda, which debuted to great fanfare in the 1980s, never lived up to its billing. But the new rotary engine is reportedly much improved.

EditorialPrivate water should be encouraged

IT'S NOT just the water board that is determined to keep water away from the people of the Monterey Peninsula. The California Coastal Commission has also gotten in on the act by trying to force Carmel to ban all "private water" supplies in the city — something the coastal commission and the water management district would encourage if they actually cared about protecting the Carmel River.

Instead, in their zeal to stop all construction, they want to make it illegal for anybody to drill a well, put in a reverse-osmosis plant, bring in water by tanker truck, haul an iceberg from Alaska or otherwise figure out a way to supply themselves with water.

A prohibition on private water might make sense if it were possible to tap into the main running down every city street. A ban on private wells, for example, was enacted in Del Monte Forest almost 20 years ago. But there was no moratorium on hookups to the Cal-Am system in those days.

Now, the owners of vacant lots — no matter how long they've been paying taxes on their land — are out of luck when it comes time for them to build. Without a water permit, they can't do anything with their property.

Should anybody in that piteous situation just sit there and take it? Of course not. Owners of this town's few vacant lots have a lot of money at stake, not to mention their dreams of living in such a beautiful, seaside village and their constitutional right to do something with their land. They can hardly be blamed for searching high and low for a supply of H₂O — something their neighbors, who built before the water shortage was invented, all take for granted.

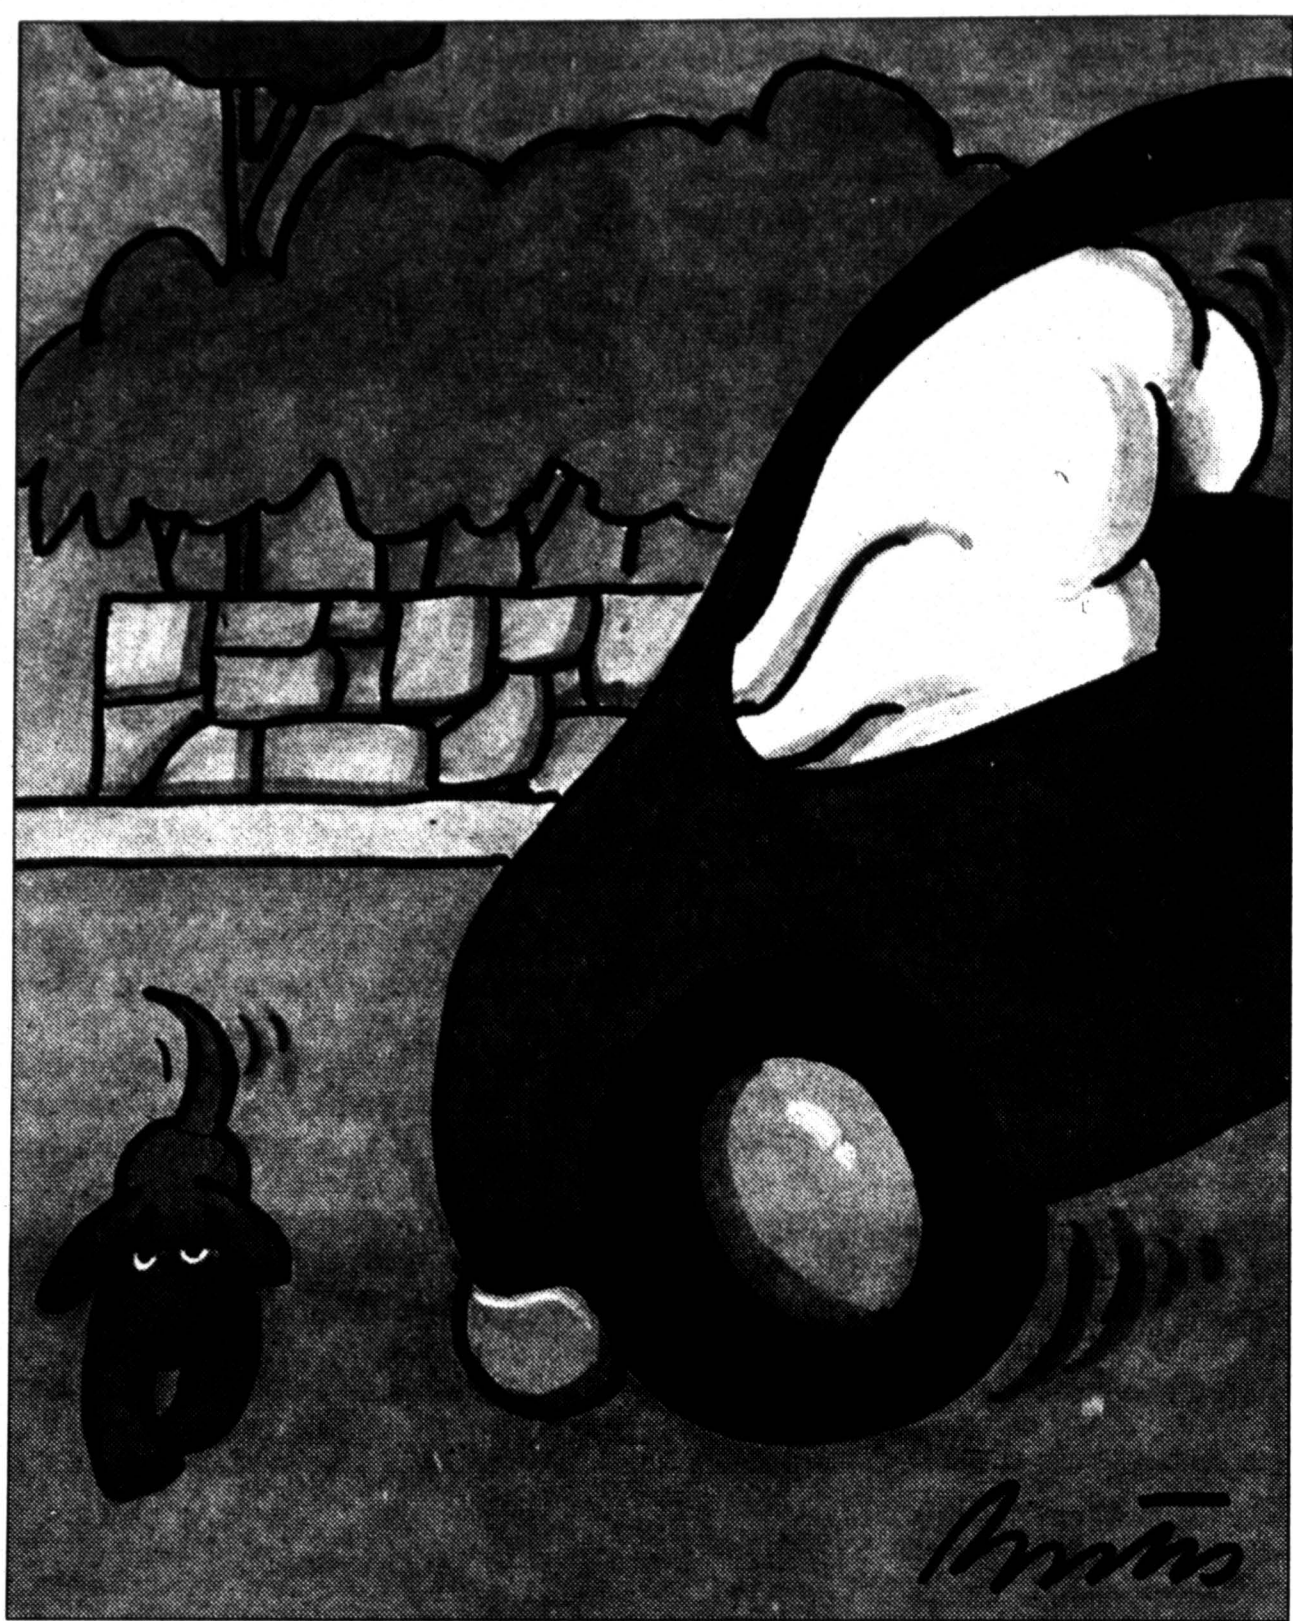

Not only do they have perfectly good reasons to try to supply themselves with water, the water-deprived are also surely aware that, having left their land pristine for all these years, they've been doing a great service for the environment. The Carmel River is seriously overdrafted, they're told; that's why they can't have a water permit. But they, among all the people of the Monterey Peninsula, are the least responsible for the overuse of the river.

That's where the hypocrisy of the water bureaucrats becomes obvious. If they were truly concerned about the environmental health of the Carmel River — which they claim motivates all their no-water policies — they would recognize the great contribution to the river's well-being made by the people who have left their land unbuilt all these years. A certificate of thanks would be a nice start.

Then, instead of vilifying these people when they decide to make use of their land, the bureaucrats could encourage them — or actually help them — find an alternate source of water. After all, if they don't take it from the river (which is in an environmental crisis, remember), so much the better for the plants and animals that call the river home.

Not only that, but the water bureaucrats, instead of banning private supplies, could encourage all other Cal-Am customers to supply at least some of their own water — especially people outside the Carmel River watershed. By making it easy to drill private wells, for example, the water cops could take real steps toward reducing pumping from the Carmel River. Instead, they want to forbid private citizens from creating new water supplies — ostensibly to protect the environment, but, in fact, because every new water source would also make it easier for new bathrooms and kitchens to be built.

By standing in the way of alternate water supplies, the no-water crowd shows its true colors. They aren't interested in restoring the river. They love having absolute power over even the smallest building project, and they're not going to allow anything to erode that authority.

Cell phone antennas and safety

Dear Editor,

Regarding your cell phone antenna editorial, I agree that anything improving public safety should be granted, if it makes sense. I write as an individual (I have lived in this immediate area for 48 years) and am a member of the Carmel Unincorporated/Highlands LUAC.

There have been four applications in the past year for antenna permits. When questioned, every applicant has stated that the applications are to improve service in Carmel and Pebble Beach, NOT the Highlands or Highway 1 south. If so, it seems more logical to place the antenna in either Pebble Beach or Carmel. A simple antenna will not make much difference to existing ugly utility poles. But where will it stop? One applicant requested not one or three poles, but twelve. Each server apparently needs its own hardware, and AT&T is not the only server. A collaborative effort should be made regarding this issue, but that would come about only through Monterey County, and, I'm sure you understand, getting the county to do anything, especially in our area, is a joke. As to your negative view of artificial trees as antennas, one applicant suggested a tree antenna, and gave the address of a New Monterey installation. Most of our committee, when going to see that installation, couldn't find it. My main resistance to improved cell phone service has nothing to do with any of the above, however. It has to do with the careless manner in which we see portable cell phones used. Highway 1 is difficult to drive even when one pays full attention to the road. All too often, we see drivers on the highway with a cell phone in one hand. They are not giving the attention required for driving. One suggestion would be to require cell phones be built into the car so the driver does not lose control of one hand. I have observed this in Europe, especially Finland (home of Nokia) and it seems to work. In the 3.5 miles between Rio Road and Highlands Drive, there are four public phones. The area is not devoid of communications in case of emergencies, and I see no reason to make it easier for people who already are a nuisance and a safety threat on the existing highway.

'Obvious ploy'

Dear Editor,

If the people of the "Village" of Carmel Valley want to become a "town" or a "city," let them incorporate the immediate village area. Including 14 miles of the valley is so obviously just a ploy to get the tax base of the western end that it is ludicrous. If we allow incorporation, fire protection will undoubtedly go down while insurance rates will go up accordingly. The same goes for the reduction of police protection which we now have from the CHP and the sheriff. The people who have stirred up the problem have now, thankfully, moved out of the area and can start their activities elsewhere. If you think we have development now, just imagine what it will be when the "city fathers" have to cover their shortfall. If you contact LAFCO, tell them you DON'T want to incorporate, and if, by chance, it comes to a vote, vote NO on the creation of a "Town," "City" or whatever.

Seagull droppings?

Dear Editor,

Recently I was discussing with a friend the idea of forming a narrow 14-mile long city in Carmel Valley.

We discussed the recent revelation that three of the most active proponents of this foolish plan are moving out of the area. My friend mentioned that this is analogous to the activity of seagulls who dirty up an area with their droppings and let someone else clean up the mess they leave.

I believe the "hit-and-run plan" proposed by these people doesn't deserve any further study or consideration.

This is a pretty nice community; let's leave it that way. "If it ain't broken then don't fix it."

George E. Ferguson, Carmel Views

Irresponsible pet owners

Dear Editor,

One recent weekend afternoon at Carmel Beach I was, quite literally, run over by a large dog running down the sand hill between Eighth and Ninth avenues. Not only was the dog out of control but the owner was several hundred yards down the beach out of voice contact with his dog. I am 6 foot, 210 pounds and the dog caused a severe bruise on my left wrist. Fortunately the dog narrowly missed my 9-year-old daughter. Had it impacted her, she would very likely have sustained serious injuries.

R. J. Jack, Vancouver, Canada

As it was, the owner very slowly walked over and expressed disbelief that "his dog didn't see me." I made it very clear to him (after he walked close enough for "voice contact") that I wasn't happy about his dog being out of control, out of voice control and off leash. I told him in no uncertain terms that the dog needs to be on a leash if he can't be controlled or if he refuses to be responsible for it.

Carmel Beach may be one of the last local beaches that dog owners can "unleash" their dogs, but the owners are the ones that I have witnessed over the years that need to exercise restraint and common sense. If your dog cannot heed voice commands or the owner refuses to leash it when it is out of control, voice or otherwise, then dog owners will only have themselves to blame when Carmel Beach becomes regulated by leash laws. They are YOUR pets and YOUR responsibility

Darin Barr, Carmel Valley

Enough killing

Dear Editor,

Isn't there enough killing we have to see and read about? Then to see a 13-year-old youngster taught to hunt wild boar (Jan. 3). And you had to show the photo.

Patricia Nation, Carmel Valley

More Blanding wanted

Dear Editor,

I enjoyed the article on Don Blanding in the Jan. 3 edition of the paper, and am thrilled to learn that more of his papers have survived. Mr. Blanding's production as a popular poet and illustrator was massive and he enjoyed friendships with hundreds of celebrities throughout the United States. To my knowledge, there are at least six biographies in preparation or proposals being pitched to publishers and Blanding is once again becoming newsworthy. One project, well advanced, promises to highlight his significant contribution as a working gay artist and explore the wealth of friendships he enjoyed in the gay community in California and offshore. Blanding enjoyed his own celebrity but still managed to keep much of his life private. I do not claim to be working on a Blanding biography but I am digging into the rich vein of alternate lifestyle and counterculture communities which once flourished in the Carmel region. Many Canadians flocked to your part of California between the world wars, some of them friends of Don Blanding. I would like to consult with local researchers who share my subject interest. I can be reached on the Net at <alliance@smarrt.com>.

BILLION

Nationally, home sales set a record last year. According to the National Association of Realtors, more than 5.5 million homes sold in the United States in 2002.

Local real estate agents expressed surprise the Peninsula housing market could bounce back so quickly, considering the dot.com debacle and the contraction of incomes in Silicon Valley. But it did.

All local towns were up on an annual basis — and seven out of the 10 posted gains on a quarter-to-quarter basis. The latter number is important as it shows the upward momentum carried into the fourth quarter.

Prices also climb

The median price of a single-family home in the Monterey Peninsula also climbed in 2002. Of the 10 Peninsula markets, only Pacific Grove declined — dropping slightly from $557,500 in 2001 to $529,500 in 2002. Carmel hit a new high at $910,000 for a typical home — a stupendous figure when you factor in the petite size of most Carmel houses.

Pebble Beach and the South Coast posted median sales prices in excess of one million dollars. Monterey, the Monterey/Salinas Highway and Carmel Valley all had significant increases, reaching $535,000, $650,000 and $825,000 respectively.

Even the once-affordable markets of Marina and Seaside are getting pricey. The median sales price for a home in Seaside in 1999 was $185,000. Last year that number jumped to $339,000. In the same time period Marina went from $245,000 to $369,000. These figures show how important the Fort Ord "affordable home" issue is.

More homes sold

Last year's sharp increases were not limited to dollar volume and prices. The number of transactions also increased substantially, from 967 sales in 2001 to 1,338 in 2002. The peak transaction year of the last six years was 1998 with 1,449 transactions in the Monterey Peninsula.

The only sign of weakness in the market was the market barometer, which compares the number of homes in escrow with the number listed for sale.

At year end, Carmel and South Coast had the fewest homes under contract for sale — just 15.33 percent and 13.16 percent respectively. Last week, Carmel had slipped lower with just 20 of 151 listings in escrow for a percentage of 13.2 percent. This is the lowest rating since Oct. 1, 2001 — just after the shock of 9/11.

At year end, the market barometers for Pebble Beach and the Monterey/Salinas Highway had also slipped. Both had 19 percent of listed homes in escrow.

But the more affordable markets did better. More than half the listings in Seaside and Marina were in escrow at the end of 2002.

With interest rates continuing to be very low, national predictions are for another banner year in real estate in 2003. If nothing else is working, the Federal Reserve's interest rate cuts have certainly benefited the real estate market.

The Peninsula also benefits from demographic trends, with aging baby boomers heading this way to buy vacation or retirement homes. Thus, the overall local market should continue to prosper. The big question among local real estate agents for 2003 is, "How will the high end do?"

Despite layoffs and the budget deficit, there is still a lot of money in California, as a recent sale of a home in San Francisco for almost $30 million attests. In Pebble Beach, a home on the golf course sold last fall for just under $20 million.

Yet, on Jan. 23 Carmel had 41 listings at prices in excess of $2 million. Only one of those was in escrow. The success of the high-end market will be the story to watch in 2003.

The shuttle will run all four days of tournament play (Thurs. Feb. 6 to Sun., Feb. 9). The shuttle will cost $5 for a daily pass and $20 for a four-day pass.

The CBA's shuttle will begin picking up spectators in front of Saks Fifth Avenue on the corner of Junipero and Ocean at 6:30 a.m. each day. On the way to Pebble Beach, it will make stops in front of Grasings (6th and Mission), at the Pine Inn (Ocean and Monte Verde) and at Ocean and Carmelo. On return trips, the route will be reversed. 'WE REQUEST THE HONOR OF YOUR PRESENCE....'

○ An invitation to play the ultimate game of golf

By MARY BROWNFIELD

"WHO IS that guy? And how did he end up paying in one of the year's best golf tournaments?"

That's what the average spectator might wonder as he watches a seemingly nondescript man in golfer's garb trying to break par alongside the pros and celebrities competing in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am next week.

"Is he rich? Is he somebody's cousin? Is he the CEO of a major company? Can he even hit the ball?"

He might be some or all of the above. As long as he's a decent golfer.

Every year, 180 amateur players are invited to join the professionals in the only PGA TOUR-sponsored pro-am event that pairs the two classes up until the final round.

Needless to say, it's a coveted invitation, especially considering how many people are vying for the few spots AT&T Pro-Am organizers end up getting to fill, according to executive vice president Ollie Nutt.

AT&T PEBBLE BEACH NATIONAL PRO-AM

The first order of business for Nutt and his colleagues at the Monterey Peninsula Foundation is to line up the big-name celebrities whose participation is key to drawing a crowd.

Eastwood first and foremost

The biggest celebrity of them all, Clint Eastwood, has been playing in the tournament for decades — in the old days, just on the strength of his status as one of the world's top movie stars. But lately, Eastwood has become a major supporter of numerous local charities, is one of the owners of the Pebble Beach Company and is even chairman of the board of directors of the foundation that hosts the Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Not only that, he lives not far from the golf course.

Just below Eastwood's name come a host of other top celebrities from movies, television and music: Kevin Costner, Bill Murray, Kenny G, Andy Garcia and the like. Included in this group are a handful who play because their shows are on CBS, which broadcasts the AT&T every year — people like Ray Romano and David James Elliot. But they all have to be able to play.

Ranks of amateurs

Next come amateurs who hail from the corporate world and whose companies are big-money sponsors of the event.

"It starts out at 180, and we have about 30 to 35 spots available" after the sponsors take their share of invitations and the celebrity and entertainer invites are set aside, Nutt said. "Obviously there's way, way more demand than there is supply," he said.

WHO PLAYS?

Months before the tournament's selection committee starts researching potential amateur players in June, Nutt receives a lot of letters and requests from would-be participants eager to have a crack at the tournament's three challenging courses alongside celebrities and world famous professional golfers.

He advises those who inquire about playing to send a short letter rather than a lengthy dossier, which would make the selection process far too cumbersome.

"We just want one page on their golf and personal background," he explained.

'We averaged about a 10 handicap last year. When you get a lot higher, it ends up not being a fun experience when you get out there in front of crowds displaying your golf game.'

necessarily have to be famous or super-rich (no spots are for sale — though the entry fee is $9,500), or male, Nutt said. This year's tentative entry list includes at least one woman.

In fact, the overriding goal of the committee is to select a variety of amateur players with different backgrounds and experiences.

"We do our best to rotate people in each year, and we're always looking for new people to play," he said. "There's no one thing — we're really trying to get a mix."

The six or seven members of the selection committee come from all over the state, according to Nutt, and they comb through the applications to compile a final list of candidates.

Meeting the criteria

Of course, those eligible for competition have to meet certain criteria, according to Nutt, particularly how well they swing a club.

"We do have requirements for golf abilities," he said, adding that the committee requires a 15 handicap limit for potential amateur players. "We averaged about a 10 handicap last year. When you get a lot higher, it ends up not being a fun experience when you get out there in front of crowds displaying your golf game."

Beyond golfing ability, there are no set standards for selecting amateurs to accompany the pros. Candidates don't Invitations start going out in September, but the names which ultimately appear on the scoreboard that first day of play tend to change right up to that point as complications arise and people are belatedly forced to bow out.

"Things happen right up to last minute — things come up, business wise," he said. Some years, the players who cancel at the last minute are probably happy if they see the tournament has been played in frigid, wet conditions — years like 1996 and 1998.

But other years, the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am is played under the most glorious, sunny skies imaginable for February. Those years, nobody wants to stay home. ○

AT&T PEBBLE BEACH NATIONAL PRO-AM

Rules of play

The AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am is a unique on the PGA TOUR, in that amateurs continue playing until the last putt on the final round.

The competition begins with 18-hole rounds on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Each foursome (two pros and two amateurs) will play one day on each course: Pebble Beach, Poppy Hills and Spyglass. Play begins at 8 a.m. on these days at both the 1st and 10th tees, with foursomes teeing off every 10 minutes.

Each day's total strokes are added to the next for a 72-hole total. The Pro-Am teams' scores are calculated on a better-ball basis, including amateurs handicap. The pro's score is his individual score.

To keep things moving, amateur contestants are requested to pick up their ball when they are out of the hole — in other words, as soon as his pro partner's score is better than his on an individual hole. Professionals may not pick up and remain in the competition.

On Sunday, teams with the 25 lowest scores and the 60 lowest scoring professionals make the cut to the final round, which is played at the Pebble Beach Golf Links. In case of a tie after the final round, there will be a sudden-death playoff. Total purse for the pros is up to $5 million this year, with $900,000 for the winner (up from $720,000 in 2002). An additional $120,000 goes to the Pro-Am winner. ○

Last year on the third hole at Pebble Beach, Bill Murray showed that he understands the rules of the Pro-Am very well. He waited until his opponent's ball was out of the scoring before he kicked it into the bunker.

Pick your celebrity at the Pro-Am

One of the best reasons to attend the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am is to spend some quality time with your favorite celebrity — from music, TV, movies or sports. But don't forget: Cameras are prohibited during the tournament, so if you want a photo, be sure to attend the practice rounds or, at a minimum, the 3m Celebrity Challenge on Wednesday at 11:00 a.m. Here are some of the celebrities playing in the Pro-Am this year:

Michael Bolton

One of the world's top-selling vocalists and song writers, Bolton grew up idolizing such pioneers of R&B as Ray Charles, Otis Redding and Marvin Gaye. Blessed with an incomparable voice, Bolton has sold more than 45 million albums during his career. With two Grammys for Best Male Vocalist, six American Music Awards, a string of No. 1 hits (including more than 100 songs he has written for other world-renowned artists), sold-out concerts for millions of people around the globe and many humanitarian and industry awards to his credit, Bolton continues to rise and expand.

Tom Brady

Quarterback for the New England Patriots, Tom Brady was the MVP in last year's dramatic Super Bowl, when the Patriots beat the St. Louis Rams 20-17. A native of San Mateo, Brady won the NFL championship in just his second year as a starter.

Glen Campbell

Born in Delight, Ark., Campbell is the seventh son in a family of eight boys and four girls, all of whom played guitar and sang.

At 14, he left home to pursue a career in music. He started with a three-piece band in Houston. Then he moved to Albuquerque and joined a Western swing band led by his uncle, Dick Bills.

At 24, Campbell moved to Los Angeles, where he quickly found studio work as a guitarist. He played on records by Frank Sinatra, Nat King Cole, Merle Haggard, Elvis Presley, Ray Charles and the Mamas and the Papas. In 1965, he even toured as a member of the Beach Boys during the absence of Brian Wilson.

Finally, in 1967, Campbell made a breakthrough under his own name. He took a song that appeared to be all wrong for a pop hit, with a rambling lyric, no chorus and a folk-country feel. For the first of many times to come, he recorded a song simply because he thought it was a great song, and "Gentle on My Mind" went on to become not only his signature song, but one of the most played singles in history.

He hosted a summer replacement TV show for the Smothers Brothers in 1968, which was so successful that he had his own show, "The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour," through 1972. He earned a pair of gold singles in 1969 with "Wichita Lineman" and "Galveston." Campbell hit No. 1 on the country, pop and easy-listening charts in 1975 with "Rhinestone Cowboy," and he topped the pop charts again in 1977 with "Southern Nights." He starred in two movies, "True Grit" (with John Wayne) and "Norwood," and has recorded an album with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

Jimmy Connors

Five-time winner of the U.S. Open, twice winner of Wimbledon and ranked number one male tennis pro in the world from 1974 to 1978, few players have impacted their sport so dramatically and for as great a length of time as Jimmy Connors. While his relentless style and booming ground strokes enable him to batter opponents into submission, his enthusiasm and outspoken personality have endeared him to fans the world over.

In his career, Jimmy Connors has compiled a record of 125 singles titles. Among those are eight Grand Slam titles and nine Champions Tour titles. In doubles Connors has also been very successful, winning 21 titles during his career, with two being Grand Slam titles and two others on the Champions Tour. Connors was ranked

No. 1 for 159 consecutive weeks, the longest hold on the No. 1 spot in the history of men's tennis.

Kevin Costner

Winner of the 1991 Best Director Oscar for "Dances with Wolves," Costner has starred in more than 20 motion pictures.

Born and raised in California, Costner has a degree in marketing from Cal State Fullerton, where a local production of "Rumpelstiltskin" started a fairy-tale career that made him into one Hollywood's all-time leading men.

His first two attention-getting movies were "The Untouchables" and "No Way Out," followed by a pair of contrasting baseball films, the iconoclastic "Bull Durham" and the inspirational hit, "Field of Dreams."

Costner then used his new Hollywood clout by making "Dances with Wolves."

Carson Daly

Host of the hottest show on MTV, "Total Request Live," Carson Daly is "tall, dark and handsome, plus charming, witty and humble," according to a recent magazine profile in his home town, Palm Springs. Just 28 years old, Daly is the host of a show that has become an obsession for many young people. "TRL is like a giant musical youth hostel that's out of control, and I'm like the gatekeeper and the warden all in one," Daly observes in amazement.

Oscar de la Hoya

Oscar de la Hoya just 5 years old when he put on boxing gloves for the very first time. As a teenager, de la Hoya began to train in East L.A., and it became apparent he would be a great young fighter. Soon, he dominated the amateur ranks, winning more than 200 fights and, finally, a Gold Medal at the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona.

Clint Eastwood

Mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea from 1986 to 1988 and supporter of numerous local charitable and conservation causes, the indefatigable Eastwood is a familiar face on the Monterey Peninsula.

David James Elliot

The star of CBS's "Jag" — where he portrays Commander Harmon Rabb, a fictional pilot-turned-Navy-lawyer — Elliot has become a major force on prime time television. He reportedly has a six handicap and keeps a putting green in his trailer on the lot. A native of Toronto, Elliot starred in a Canadian drama from 1985 to 1988 and appeared on "Knot's Landing" and "Melrose Place" before getting his own show. But he credits his one-time appearance as Carl the moving guy on "Seinfeld" with opening more doors than all his other credits combined.

Glen Frey

As a founding member of the Eagles, Frey helped create a new genre of rock-and-roll music with such hits as "Hotel California" and "Lyn' Eyes."

His solo career, with songs like "The Heat is On," (from the movie "Beverly Hills Cop") and "Smuggler's Blues" (a spin-off from "Miami Vice"), has been even more successful.

Frey is also an accomplished actor,

Garcia later starred in "The Untouchables," "The Godfather Part III" and "Desperate Measures."

Mark Grace

Chicago Cubs for 13 seasons. His lifetime batting average is .305 with 2,418 hits and 170 home runs.

quarterback to pass for more than 10,000 yards and is also the only quarterback with more than 400 touchdown passes.

Bill Murray

A favorite at the AT&T Pro-Am, Murray is one of America's unique talents. Born in 1950 in Wilmette, Ill., Murray first moved to the nation's center stage when he joined the cast of "Saturday Night Live" in 1977. While still with SNL, Murray made his first hit film, "Meatballs." Soon after, he was transformed into Carl Speckler, assistant greenskeeper, in the classic golf comedy, "Caddyshack."

That film was directed by Harold Ramis, who starred with Murray in "Ghostbusters" (1984) and directed him again in the inimitable "Groundhog Day" (1993).

Craig T. Nelson

Star of the CBS show, "The District," where he portrays Chief Jack Mannion, Craig Richard Nelson was born April 4, 1946, in Spokane, Wash. He attended the University of Arizona and studied acting at the Oxford Theatre in Los Angeles. Nelson began his career working with Larry Levinson as a radio writer/performer and stand-up comic. He added the "T" to his name because there was another actor registered with the Screen Actors Guild who had the same name! His previous prime-time show, "Coach," was a major hit from 1989 to 1997.

Chris O'Donnell

A native of Winnetka, Ill., O'Donnell is best known for his portrayal of Robin in "Batman Forever" and "Batman and Robin," and for "Scent of a Woman," which earned him a Best Supporting Actor Oscar nomination. He also got highly favorable reviews for "The Three Musketeers" in 1993.

Maury Povich

Povich's syndicated talk show features real people talking about everyday problems and is a hit with young viewers. The son of legendary sports writer Shirley Povich, Maury Povich was a reporter and news anchorman before making a career as a talk show host. He is married to newswoman Connie Chung.

Ray Romano

Star of a CBS comedy, "Everybody Loves Raymond," Romano is expert at portraying a man who is clueless about relationships. The native New Yorker recently told USA Today there's nothing wrong with men handling their personal lives ineptly. "Just try to be likably clueless," he said.

Emmitt Smith

Just 5' 9" tall, Smith is one of football's preeminent players, having rushed for 17,162 yards and 153 touchdowns in 13 seasons with the Dallas Cowboys.

Lynn Swann

Pro Football Hall of Fame wide receiver, Swann played for the Pittsburgh Steelers from 1974 to 1982 — a span during which the Steelers won six straight AFC titles and four Super Bowls. In his career, Swann had 336 receptions for 5,462 yards and 51 touchdowns.

He is also a chairman of the board of a corporation that owns one of Atlantic City's biggest casinos, the Taj Mahal. Trump got his start in the real estate business through his father, Fred, who developed numerous middle-class housing projects in various NYC boroughs. From that (relatively modest) beginning, the outspoken and flamboyant Donald Trump became the most daring real estate developer of the last 20 years. His latest project is The Trump World Tower which, at 90 floors, is New York's tallest residential building.

Peter Ueberroth

Former commissioner of Major League Baseball and head of the organizing committee for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles, Ueberroth — along with Arnold Palmer, Clint Eastwood and businessman Dick Ferris — put together the 1999 deal to acquire the Pebble Beach Company from a Japanese golf resort company.

Clay Walker

Singer/guitarist and one of the U.S.A.'s biggest Country and Western stars, Walker began performing professionally at 16 in his native Beaumont, Texas. In the fall of 1993 his first single, "What's It To You," went straight to number one on the charts. His biggest selling albums are "Say No More" and "Live Laugh Love." Walker is considered a modest individual and says he sees himself in the face of each and every fan. "When we make records," he says, "it's final. The records will always be the same, but it's the fans who give life to the music. On stage, you know immediately if you are really reaching people."

James Woods

Perhaps the most intense actor in America, Woods has frightened or fascinated audiences in movies like "The Onion Field," "Once Upon a Time in America," "Salvador," "Ghosts of Mississippi" and last year's "Any Given Sunday."

In 1999, he co-starred in the Clint Eastwood-directed "True Crime."

AT&T PEBBLE BEACH NATIONAL PRO-AM

A look back at tournament history

PINE CONE STAFF REPORT

IN 1937, Bing Crosby invited a group of friends to get together for a round of golf and a "clambake" at Rancho Santa Fe in Southern California. That gathering of Hollywood celebrities and golf greats gave birth to the first National Pro-Amateur Golf Championship, sponsored by Bing Crosby, with Sam Snead taking the top prize of $500.

For five years, the tournament was played at Rancho Santa Fe before being discontinued during the war years. Meanwhile, 1946 was a bleak year for the Monterey Peninsula. Postwar Monterey was frantically scraping for income, the chief source having been packed into sardine tins for the last time.

At this time, a young newspaper reporter, Ted Durein, came up with the idea of attracting more tourists to the area by bringing a major special event to the area. A good sporting event, once a year, perhaps garnished with celebrities, could anchor a drifting economy. Slowly an idea began to take shape, along with a worldwide household name: Crosby.

Durein solicited local merchants to see if they would pool money for a tournament purse — they would. Bravely, Durein wrote to Bing Crosby himself with the idea. That was in January of 1946. February and March passed. Nothing. April, May, still nothing. Then, in June, a letter from Bing's brother, Larry, arrived. Yes, Bing was interested; What's the offer? Durein didn't have one.

The deal is struck

He quickly rushed to see if Samuel F.B. Morse (president of Del Monte Properties, now known as Pebble Beach Company) would let the Pebble Beach golf course host the Crosby. Sam Morse agreed. Ted met with Larry Crosby and the deal was struck.

Bing then decided he wanted the tournament spread out over three courses: Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's Dunes Course.

Bing Crosby joined Arnold Palmer at the Pro-Am in the 1960s, when it was known as "The Clambake." Palmer never won the Pebble Beach event, which was named for its founder until 1986. Crosby died in 1977 on a golf course in Spain.

HISTORY

The PGA Tour, the controlling body of the professional golfers association, said this was unprecedented. Bing asked, "Why not? It's done in England." The PGA Tour consented and the Crosby Pro-Am broke new ground in American golf.

Since then, the annual tournament at Pebble Beach has been a staple of the PGA Tour calendar. The tournament purse has increased from $500 for first prize in 1937 to a first prize of $720,000 in 2000. The monies for charity each year have continued to set new records, as well.

Bing Crosby died in 1977. His wife and children continued to host the Crosby Pro-Am until 1986, when AT&T took over sponsorship of the event. Since 1990, the event has been played at Pebble Beach, Poppy Hills and Spyglass. Over the last 20 years, the event has provided some of the most dramatic moments in golf, including Hale Irwin's fantastically lucky tee shot in 1984, and Tiger Woods' amazing comeback in 2000.

WINNER: LON HINKLE
70-68-69-77 (284)

After Andy Bean missed a 20-foot putt on 18, a three-way tie forced a playoff between Bean and fellow PGA youngsters Mark Hayes and Lon Hinkle — a playoff ultimately decided in Hinkle's favor when he sank a 12-foot birdie putt on 17. The winner's purse was $54,000. Hinkle's dramatic finish wasn't seen by TV viewers, however, when CBS decided to end its coverage after 72 holes in favor of "60 Minutes" and "Rocky." Jack Nicklaus missed the Crosby in 1979 for the first time in his career, and Hale Irwin broke his string of making the cut in 87 straight tournaments. Pro-Am winners were Bean and Florida real estate developer Bill Bunting.

1980
GEORGE BURNS III
71-69-71-69 (280)

Under crystal-clear skies, a record gallery of more than 10,000 watched Sunday's final round of the Crosby, when George Burns overcame a big lead by Jack Nicklaus to win. Nicklaus was at one point 10 under (including a 5-under performance on the first six holes Sunday) but faded on the back nine. Burns, meanwhile, was steadily making difficult putts, including a monster 40-footer on 16. "It surprised the hell out of me," said Burns who, at 30, had won almost $500,000 in five years on the PGA Tour without a victory. He added another $54,000 with his win at Pebble Beach. Pro-Am winners were George Cadle and Whizzer Farish of Pebble Beach, a pilot for Pan-Am playing in his 22nd Crosby.

1981
WINNER: JOHN COOK
66-71-72 (209)

A dramatic five-way playoff, the first ever on the PGA Tour, ended in a stunning victory for unknown pro John Cook over 20-year-old Bobby Clampett, Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Barney Thompson. Cook won by making par on the third playoff hole after lapses by his opponents (including a bogey by Irwin) left the door wide open. Rain delayed to start of the Crosby to Saturday, and icy winds made things miserable throughout the weekend. Nevertheless, record crowds turned out to watch the tournament, which was shortened to 54 holes and ended on Monday. Clampett, who lived in Carmel Valley, missed the victory when he couldn't sink a three-foot par putt on his final hole at Cypress. Cook's winning purse was $40,500 (reduced by 25 percent because the tournament was shortened). Pro-Am winners were again George Cadle and Whizzer Farish — the first and only Pro-Am team to repeat. Farish, who grew up on the Peninsula, said of the three Crosby courses, "I've played them a thousand times — each."

1982
WINNER: JIM SIMONS
71-66-71-66 (274)

Blowing a five-stroke lead with 10 holes to play — and foreshadowing the 2000 AT&T Pro-Am when Tiger Woods overcame an even bigger deficit — Craig Stadler let Jim Simons win the 1982 Crosby and its first prize of $54,000. But Simons was no patsy; his final round of 66 was one of the finest finishes to date in the tournament, and he set a Crosby record with his total of 274, 14 under par. The great Jack Nicklaus might have won, but ended up in a five-way tie for won, but ended up in a five-way tie for third (with Johnny Miller and three others) after missing several key putts.

WINNER: TOM KITE
69-72-62-73 (276)

It rained all day during Sunday's final round, but play continued anyway as Tom Kite took the tournament despite a final round of 73. Saturday, when Kite also played Pebble, he set a course record of 62. The $58,500 first prize was Kite's fifth PGA crown in 12 years. Despite four birdies on the back nine, Jack Nicklaus finished in sixth place — which earned him $11,700 and made him the first golf pro to earn more than $4 million in a career. Cal Peete was in second place, two strokes back. The Pro-Am winners were Gilder and Clark.

1984

69-69-68-72 (278)

With the most improbable shot in Pebble Beach history, Hale Irwin captured the 1984 Crosby title and the $72,000 check that came with it. Even Tiger Woods couldn't hope to pull off the shot Irwin made on 18 at Pebble during the final round Sunday. Irwin's tee shot was headed out into Stillwater Cove when the ball improbably caromed off a rock and bounced back onto the fairway. "The entire tournament evolved around that tremendous break I had on 18," Irwin said. Mark O'Meara, with two eagles on the front nine, nearly caught Irwin. Even after Irwin birdied 18, Jim Nelford did catch him, forcing a playoff.

Tom Kite, shown here teeing off 8, won the 1983 Pro-Am despite a rain-soaked final round of 73. His third round at Pebble Beach on Saturday helped: he set a course record of 62. The victory was Kite's fifth PGA title in 12 years on the tour.

But on the second playoff hole — 16 — Irwin made a tremendous second shot from a bunker 200 yards onto the green and just nine feet from the cup. When Nelford missed his birdie putt on the hole, Irwin calmly nailed his tournament-winning shot. O'Meara, paired with J.P. Diesel of Houston, won the Pro-Am team crown.

WINNER: MARK O'MEARA
70-72-68-73 (273)

The final year of the Crosby saw the tournament begin under frosty skies with winds at 35 mph. But in the end, it was

Mark O'Meara who warmed up the crowd with his clutch putting that gave him the $90,000 first place check despite a final round of 73. Larry Rinker, Kikou Arai and Curtis Strange were all just one shot behind. Playing in the final group, O'Meara missed a birdie putt on 18, but so did Strange, ending any chance of a playoff. Dean Spanos, who lived in Stockton and was part-owner of the San Diego Chargers, and pro partner Hubert Green captured the Pro-Am crown.

WINNER: FUZZY ZOELLER
69-66-70 (205)

The first year with its new corporate sponsor was nearly a washout for the AT&T Pebble Beach Pro-Am. Friday's round was canceled after heavy morning rains drenched the three courses. And so was the rescheduled final round on Monday, leaving Fuzzy Zoeller the winner of the $108,000 first prize after just 54 holes. Crowds were sparse, but the tournament still generated a hefty sum for charity, with AT&T contributing $750,000 in its first year backing the tournament. Zoeller, who was on Pebble Monday before play was suspended, called the weather, "The worst conditions I've ever played under." Zoeller was also winner of the Pro-Am team title. His partner was Coral de Tierra golfer Mike Evans.

WINNER: JOHNNY MILLER
72-72-68-66 (278)

Taking advantage of a bogey on 17 by third-round leader Payne Stewart, Johnny Miller won the Pebble

Johnny Miller, three-time Pro-Am winner, liked playing Pebble Beach so much, he built a home in Pacific Grove.

Beach Pro-Am for the second time. On a perfect Sunday at Pebble Beach, he shot a six-under 66, including seven birdies, for the $108,000 first prize. "I can't believe I won," Miller was overheard to say to his caddy as the day wrapped up. Stewart finished just one stroke back. This was Miller's 19th appearance at the tournament he continued to call The Crosby. In 1968, he launched his career with a victory at the California State Amateur, also at Pebble Beach, which he often referred to as his home course. And Miller wasn't through. He came back and won the Pro-Am again in 1994. The team victory in 1987 went to Fred Couples and baseball great George Brett, who capped the title with a 3-inch putt on 18.

WINNER: STEVE JONES
72-64-70-74 (280)

With an 18-foot birdie putt on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff, Steve Jones capped a dramatic victory at Pebble Beach over a field that included five or six players with a shot at the title. Jones, a relative unknown, triumphed over 1988's top players, including Bob Tway, Greg Norman and Craig Stadler. Jones had a three-stroke lead as Sunday's round began, but bogeys on 15 and 17 opened the door for Tway, who tied the leader with a birdie on 18. But in the playoff, it was Jones who out-putted the veteran for a $126,000 first-place check. The Pro-Am winners were Dan Pohl and Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino.

WINNER: MARK O'MEARA
66-68-73-70 (277)

With a dramatic 10-foot birdie putt on 18, Mark O'Meara edged out Tom Kite — who missed his chance for a tie on 18 when his 15-foot putt for birdie fell short — for the 1989 first prize of $180,000. "I knew that whoever birdied 18 would win," Kite said. He finished just one stroke back. After the match, O'Meara sharply criticized the slow play during the tournament, saying it took his group three hours to finish the first nine holes during the final round. Pro-Am winners were Steve Jones and Carmel Valley doctor Jim Rheim, who birdied 18 with a 9-foot putt.

1990
WINNER: MARK O'MEARA
67-73-69-72 (281)

Winning for the second year in a row, Mark O'Meara became the first player to win back-to-back titles since Tom Watson in 1977 and 1978. Nicklaus also won consecutive titles; Cory Middlecoff was the first to do it back in '55 and '56. O'Meara won the $180,000 first prize with a final round of 72 at a windy Pebble Beach. No one has done it since. Kenny Perry finished in second place, two strokes back. Payne Stewart seemed like the favorite to win until he bogeyed 12, 14, 16 and 18. Four groups had to finish their third round Sunday morning, after high winds at Cypress curtailed play on Saturday. Dean Spanos, co-owner of the San Diego Chargers, teamed with Hubert Green for the Pro-Am team title. 1990 was also the first year Poppy Hills was part of the Pro-Am play; it replaced Cypress Point golf

1991
WINNER: PAUL AZINGER
67-67-73-67 (274)

After being frustrated with his play at Pebble Beach year after year, Azinger stormed to a final round score of 67 to take the tournament from gallery favorite Rocco Mediate. "Every year when I leave here, I say I'm not coming back," Azinger joked after taking the $198,000 first prize. Before the 1991 Pro-Am, Azinger said he'd never shot better than a 70 at Pebble. On his way to the victory he birdied 13 and 17, while Mediate was blowing his once-substantial tournament lead with a final round of 74. The Pro-Am team title went to John Cook and soap opera star Jack Wagner.

1992
69-68-68-70 (275)

With a dramatic 35-foot putt on 18 to force a playoff with Jeff Sluman, Mark O'Meara made perhaps his most dramatic shot in a run of three AT&T Pro-Am victories in four years. He captured the $198,000 first-place prize by sinking another great putt — from 18 feet — on the first playoff hole. The day started poorly for O'Meara, who shot 38 on the front nine. But he came storming back with a 32 on the back nine. Paul Azinger was just one back after regulation play finished, despite shooting 68 for the final round. Pro-Am winners Greg Norman and Kerry Packers set a tournament record with a 42-under total of 246.

1993
WINNER: BRETT OGLE
68-68-69-71 (276)

Gregarious Australian Brett Ogle captured his first PGA TOUR victory at Pebble Beach with a 3-shot triumph in the AT&T Pro-Am, despite four bogeys in six holes during the final round. With a steady rain falling through much of the day, Ogle birdied three of the last six holes to fend off challengers Billy Ray Brown and Greg Twigs. Ogle's first-place finish was worth $225,000. Tom Watson had the low round on the final day, with birdies on 10, 11, 18, 6, 7 and 9. Payne Stewart and Jim Morris won the Pro-Am title, after Mark McGwire knocked his team out of contention with a bogey on 18.

WINNER: JOHNNY MILLER
68-72-67-74 (281)

Defying the calendar, 46-year-old Johnny Miller captured the AT&T Pro-Am, and even he had trouble believing it. "I play two tournaments a year... this is magic," he said. The win was Miller's third title in three different decades at the Pebble Beach charity event — he had previously won in 1974 and 1987. Jeff Maggert, Corey Pavin, Kirk Triplett and Tom Watson all finished just one stroke behind Miller, who sank a one-foot putt for par on 18 to avoid a possible five-way playoff. It rained nearly all day during the final round and, with a gale blowing from the south, Miller got to the green in two on 17 to preserve his lead while Watson was bogeying 14, 16 and 17. Miller's first-place finish was worth $225,000. Pro-Am winners were Dudley Hart and 18-year-old amateur Robert Floyd.

WINNER: PETER JACOBSEN
67-73-66-65 (271)

With the best final round by a winner, Peter Jacobsen captured the $252,000 winner's purse despite starting play at Pebble Beach on Sunday at 3 under. His total score, 271, was the lowest since Tom Watson's 273 in 1977, but with clean-and-place rules in effect because of a wet course, Jacobsen said his record score deserved "an asterisk." With a bit of sun finally showing through the clouds, Jacobsen birdied 18 to seal his victory. David Duval, in his first full year on the PGA TOUR, finished in second place, two strokes back. Pro-Am winners were Bruce Vaughn and amateur Masahi Yamada.

Tom Watson won consecutive Pro-Ams at Pebble Beach in 1977 and 1978. Jack Nicklaus also repeated (1972-1973) and Mark O'Meara won in 1989 and 1990.

Tournament canceled due to unplayable conditions

The weather on Sunday was pleasant: low clouds, some sun, no rain. But heavy rains earlier in the week, including a torrential downpour on Saturday, left the courses — especially Spyglass — in unplayable condition, forcing outright cancellation of the AT&T Pro-Am for the first, and only, time in its history. In particular, one flooded spot on 16 at Spyglass was cited by PGA officials as requiring cancellation of the event. (That hole later got a new drainage system.) Jeff Maggert was the leader at Fighting off an amazing comeback by Tiger Woods — who was in 67th place on Friday and trailed by seven shots Sunday morning — Mark O'Meara won his fifth AT&T Pebble Beach by a single shot over Woods and David Duval. Woods, playing in a foursome one hole ahead of O'Meara, had six birdies in the first 12 holes but bogeyed 13. Two shots down on 18, Woods made a dramatic bid for an eagle on 18. His second shot, from 267 yards out, landed on the front of the green. But he missed a 35-foot putt and had to settle for a birdie. O'Meara's winner's purse was $342,000. Pro-Am champs were Paul Stankowski and Andy Garcia.

WINNER: PHIL MICKELSON
67-68-67 (202)

A torrential downpour on Sunday brought back memories of 1996, when the AT&T Pro-Am was canceled after 54 holes. But in 1998, with California again experiencing record-breaking rains, PGA officials looked for a way to squeeze in a third round at Pebble Beach sometime later in the year. First, they set the final round for March 2. Later, it was rescheduled again to Aug. 17. Winner's check was $450,000. The Pro-Am portion of the tournament was canceled.

1999
WINNER: PAYNE STEWART
69-64-73 (206)

With weather getting seriously in the way for the fourth time in five years, the 1999 tournament was shortened to just 54 holes, just like it had been the year before. Saturday leader Payne Stewart was declared the winner of the $504,000 first prize after heavy rains Saturday night and Sunday forced cancellation of the final round. Stewart's final shot on Saturday, a tap-in birdie on 18 at Spyglass, turned out to be the winner over Frank Lickliter, just one shot back. Pro-Am winners were Lickliter and Robert MacDonnell. Later that year, Stewart won the U.S. Open at Pinehurst, S.C. He died in a plane crash Oct. 25 when carbon monoxide rendered everyone on board his chartered airplane unconscious soon after takeoff from Orlando, Florida. The plane flew on autopilot until it ran out of fuel and crashed in South Dakota, depriving Stewart of the chance to defend his U.S. Open and AT&T Pro-Am titles — both at Pebble Beach — in 2000.

2000
WINNER: TIGER WOODS
68-73-68-64 (273)

Leaving the crowd and the sportswriters practically speechless, Tiger Woods gave the AT&T Pro-Am a finish unlike any other. Down five shots when play began on Sunday, and even further behind — seven shots — with just seven holes to play, Woods took complete control of his game and the tournament, capping his comeback with a 97-foot wedge shot on 15 that hit just to the right of the hole, took two bounces, and landed in the cup. He nearly did the same on 16 and finished two strokes ahead of Vijay Singh and Matt Gogel to take the first prize of $720,000. The win was Woods' sixth in a row on the PGA TOUR. Pro-Am champs were Skip Kendall and King City businessman David Gill. The tournament was the last Pebble Beach Pro-Am event for golf legend Jack Nicklaus.

WINNER: DAVIS LOVE III
71-69-69-63 (272)

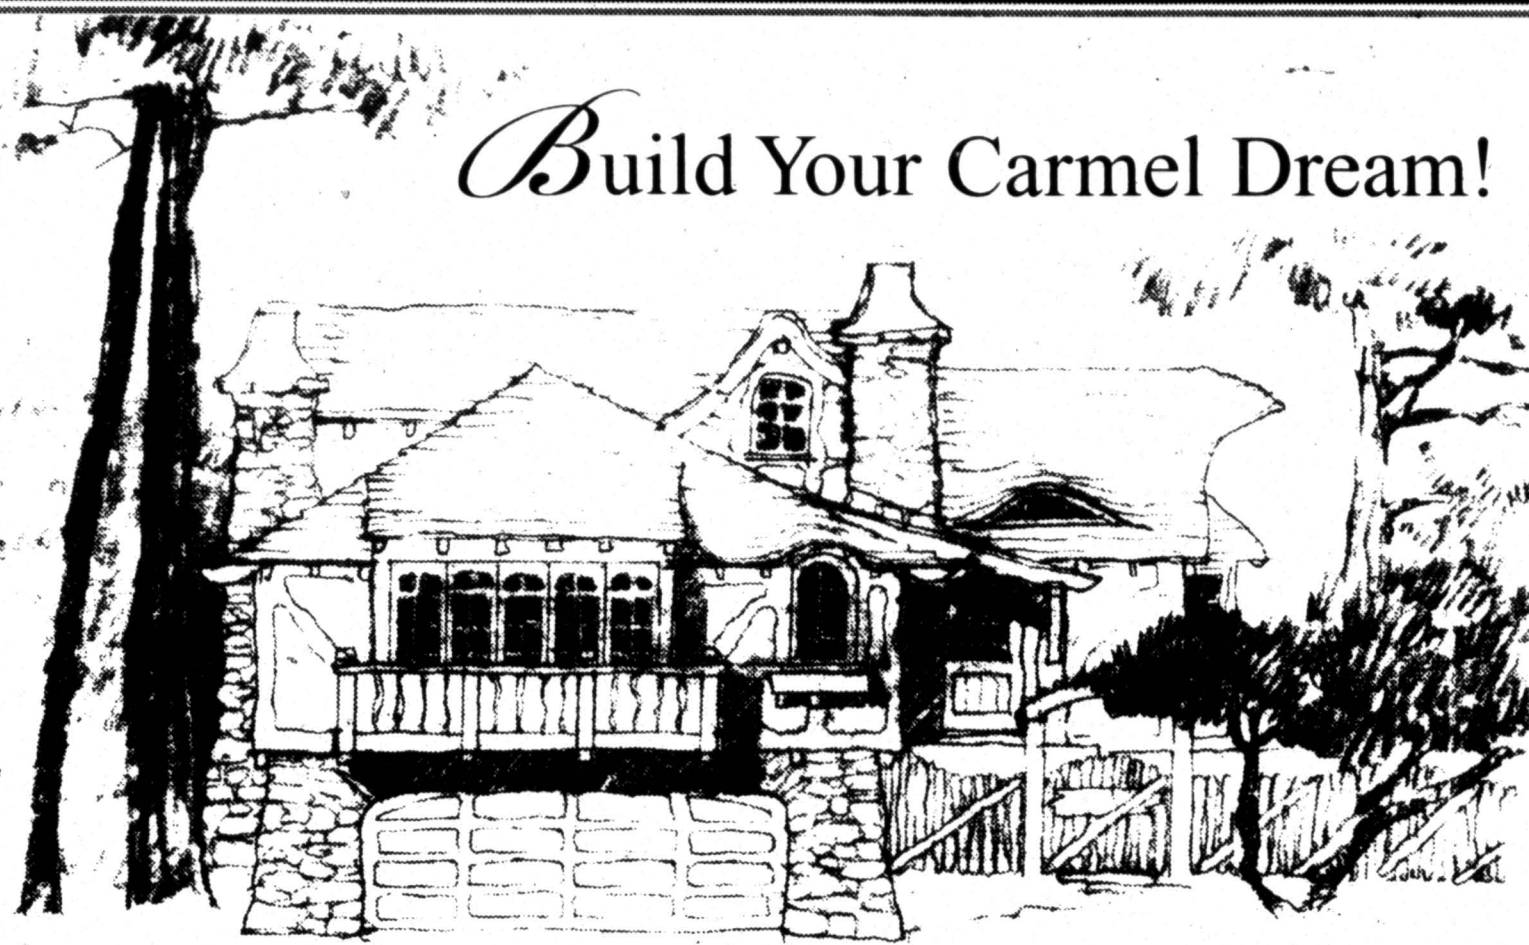

Despite a seven-shot deficit with play started under sparkling, clear skies Sunday morning, Davis Love III put together an amazing round of 63, including five birdies and an eagle on the first six holes. On the front nine, he was an amazing 8 under. Another birdie on 15 sealed his victory and the first-place money of $720,000. Vijay Singh finished just one stroke back; Tiger Woods was eight strokes off the lead. Pro-Am champs were Phil Mickelson and saxophonist Kenny G.

66-72-67-69 (274)

With his first PGA TOUR victory, Gogel picked up a check for $720,000 after shooting 2 under on the back nine during the final round. Two years earlier, Gogel had watched Tiger Woods stage an incredible comeback to take the tournament from him. This year, third-round leader Pat Perez, who was up by four strokes when play started Sunday, withered on the final day, shooting a triple-bogey on the 18th Hole, opening the door for Gogel who showed none of the nervousness of 2000. Tiger Woods shot 282, eight strokes off the lead. Pro-Am winners were Brian Claar and Randall Mays. ○
